Pantelleria Rocked By Third Naval Assault; 137 Allied Vessels Leave 'Rock.'

UNITED NATIONS SILENT

Rome, Berlin Busy With Story of Three Armadas That Enter Mediterranean.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Secretary of War Stimson today asserted that United States successes on Attu island in the Aleutians have brought the army "within striking distance of Japanese territory." Stimson refused to elaborate on his statement.

(By Associated Press)

Allied warships boldly striking near Italy's own shores were officially credited today with sinking three vessels and driving a destroyer ashore in an attack on an Axis convoy off Capo Spartivento, and Rome announced a third Allied naval assault in four days on the "Italian Gibraltar" at Pantelleria.

Both Rome and Berlin plucked nervously at the specter of an Allied invasion of Europe, with Axis broadcasts ranging from Nazi defiance to Fascist appeals for courage.

"Our fate will be terrible should we lose this war," said a Rome military spokesman, apparently seeking to frighten the Italians into a last-ditch stand.

"Nobody will be spared."

Another Italian commentator declared that "not much quarter" would be given British and American invasion forces, and added:

"It would be a matter of butcher and be butchered."

Meanwhile, dispatches from La Linea, Spain, reported a huge movement of Allied shipping from Gibraltar, leaving the harbor at the great British stronghold virtually deserted.

150 Delegates to Arrive Tomorrow For 2 Conventions

Two conventions will bring more than 150 delegates to Mansfield tomorrow.

Mansfield Chamber of Commerce officials are expecting 100 Chamber of Commerce secretaries and their wives from throughout Ohio for the two-day conference of the Ohio Commercial Secretaries association which will open tomorrow. Delegates will begin arriving this evening with the remainder of them coming in tomorrow for the registration at 9:30 a. m. Friday.

Ray M. Calene, president of the local chamber will welcome the delegates to the conference at the opening luncheon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel tomorrow noon. A dinner Friday night at which Louis Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press, will be guest speaker and a visit to Malabar Farm are highlights of the program.

Also meeting tomorrow for their annual get-together will be representatives from loan companies in nine counties comprising the ninth division of the Ohio Savings and Loan league. This group will meet for luncheon at Westbrook Country club.

At the afternoon session, the 50 or more delegates will hold a round table discussion of the problems arising in the loan industry.

HOLD KEY SPOT

Newspapers Called Vital To War Effort By U. S. Office.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Newspapers occupy a "key position in the total war effort," a special report of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism said today.

"News is more necessary than ever in times of crisis," the report, issued through the U. S. office of education, declared. "It is necessary for the proper functioning of a democracy and it is necessary for morale."

Beef Cuts to Cost 1 to 4 Points More

Steaks of All Kinds to Go Up 3; Pork, Lamb, Veal Cuts Lower.

Mansfielders today face the necessity of going on a slimmer meat diet unless they give up beef steaks for lamb, pork, veal and other meats.

Housewives will have to pay from one to four points more for beef steaks, roasts, hamburger and dried beef beginning Sunday as the result of an order issued today by the Office of Price Administration. Most beef increases were three points.

Fewer points will be required for certain cuts of pork, lamb and veal, however, and for sausage and variety meats.

Beef steaks of all cuts except chuck or shoulder are up three points of the new table, with boneless sirloin and all round and flank steaks going to 12 points. Chuck steak is up one point.

All roasts are up two points, except round tip, which increased in value from eight to 11 points. Stews are up one point and hamburger is quoted at six points, an increase of one point.

Increases in the point values for beef, officials said, are prompted by lower production and larger consumer demand. The beef slaughter from March 26 to May 21 was 10 per cent less than was forecast for the period, which will make June a month "short on beef."

A chart showing the new OPA ration points on meat and other foods requiring red stamps will be found on Page 13 of today's News-Journal. Save it for reference.

OPA emphasized, however, that a person who eats more of the lamb, pork and veal cuts which have declined in point value, may still maintain his weekly consumption of meat at present levels, but not if he spends all his red stamps for beef.

Pork, officials said, is now coming to market in relatively greater quantities than beef, and as a result, most pork cuts will repre-

STOCK AMPLE

Report Says There's Plenty of Liquor For 3 Years.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Allied Liquor Industries, Incorporated, today announced that a study of liquor supplies throughout the country disclosed normal stocks now aging in bonded warehouses were adequate to last three to four years on a rationed basis.

The concern, a trade organization representing both distillers and consumers outlets, said consumers would have available in the next 12 months about 180,000,000 gallons of distilled spirits, plus inventories of wholesalers, retailers and taverns estimated in excess of 25,000,000 gallons and hoarded stocks placed at 10,000,000 gallons.

This total of more than 165,000,000 gallons available was contrasted with actual consumption of 157,000,000 gallons in 1941.

WAIT REPORT ON MARION BLAST

Authorities Study Case of Strange Home Explosion.

MARION—(U.P.)—A coroner's report was awaited today as police continued their investigation of a gas explosion, which caused the death of Terley Vance, 38, principal of Glenwood elementary school, and the attempted suicide of Gladys Vance, his wife, by shooting herself.

Police Chief William E. Marks said that gas had "undoubtedly been piped into Vance's bedroom during the night for the purpose of asphyxiation." Vance died of burns he received when he lit a cigaret in his gas-filled room. The gas had been piped into his bedroom from a bathroom heater with a 25-foot garden hose.

His wife was in critical condition at a hospital as a result of two self-inflicted bullet wounds.

BLACKOUT PLANNED

COLUMBUS —(INS)— A nine-county blackout next Wednesday, June 9, was announced by State Civilian Defense Director Ralph Stone. The counties affected are Fayette, Ross, Pike, Scioto, Vinton, Jackson, Lawrence, Gallia and the eastern portion of Meigs.

Scenes and Personages In National Coal Crisis

President Roosevelt conferred today with CIO and AFL leaders in his labor war 'cabinet' following action by the War Labor board which yesterday ordered termination of discussions between the UMW and mine operators on the walkout of nearly 550,000 miners. Above is a photo of one of the conferences at a Washington hotel. John L. Lewis is shown second from left; coal operators are at right. Lower photo shows Solid Fuel Administrator Harold L. 6,109 PUPILS END CLASSES

Public School Pupils Start Vacation, Grads to Receive Diplomas Tomorrow.

Mansfield's 6,109 public school pupils will close the book on another school year tomorrow.

Recessed from classes today while teachers are engaged in compiling grades, pupils will report back tomorrow to receive their final grade reports and will then be dismissed for their annual three-month vacation.

The closing tomorrow will end the year's work for all Mansfield and Richland county school children except that at St. Peter's Catholic school which closes for the summer vacation period June 10.

It won't be vacation for a great many Senior high school youths, school officials agreed today. Many of them will go into the armed forces and others will go into war jobs in Mansfield industrial plants. A large number of younger boys are planning to take jobs on farms.

The 286 members of the Senior high school graduating class will receive their diplomas tomorrow night at commencement exercises at Stadium field. The exercises will be held in the auditorium in the event of rain.

Don Bolt, newspaperman and radio commentator from Marion, Ind., will be the speaker. Bolt was formerly with the Chicago Herald-Examiner, St. Louis Globe Democrat and Pittsburgh Post, and has wide experience as a lecturer.

Commencement exercises for the 47 graduates at St. Peter's school will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. in the church. Msgr. R. C. Goebel will deliver the address.

Annual class night exercises will be held Sunday at 8 p. m. with the presentation of awards to the top pupils highlighting the activity. The awards will be presented by Msgr. Goebel.

Picnics and other year-end celebrations for pupils were called off at most schools this year because of rationing limitations on food and travel.

PLANE HUNTED

Cargo Craft Reported Missing Since Monday.

MILWAUKEE—(INS)—A search was conducted today for a two-motored cargo plane carrying four army men and perhaps several passengers which has been missing since Monday night on a flight from Colorado Springs, Colo., to Reno, Nev. The missing fliers were based at Gen. Mitchell field, Milwaukee.

Fund for Playgrounds Oked, Fendrick to Direct Program

With Al Fendrick, Madison high school athletic coach, at the helm as newly appointed director, plans for the 12-week wartime operation of the Mansfield playgrounds got under way today.

Fendrick received his appointment today following the granting of a $2,000 budget to the Mansfield Public Parks association from Community War Chest funds. The request, made by Floyd Dent, chairman of the city recreation board, was granted last night at the meeting of the admission and distributions and executive committees of the Community and War Chest.

"We hope to have the program set up by the middle of the month so that the park playgrounds may be opened at that time," Fendrick said today. He said training of the workers who have volunteered their services to supervise the playgrounds will begin next week. Professional workers from the council of Community Fund agencies will take over the training job.

Fendrick outlined the training

WANTS FOURTH

Invest 25 Per Cent In War Bonds, Morgenthau Asks.

NEWARK, N. J. —(AP)— The budget of the average American family is due for an overhauling by the end of this year, when Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau says each family should be investing one-fourth of its income in war savings bonds if it is to carry its share of the war's financial burden.

At the same time, a withholding tax of 20 per cent on salaries probably will be imposed, but the increased purchases of war bonds by individuals "is not too much to expect," he said yesterday at a press conference.

"Of the 45 billions still necessary to complete our war financing needs for 1943," he said, "at least 18 billions, or almost 25 per cent of the national income for the remainder of the year, should come from purchases of bonds by individuals."

HE MIGHT BE TOO INTERESTED

Tombstone Salesman Barred From Murder Jury.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Kings county court decided today that Abram R. Morrell might have more than an impartial interest serving as a juror in a murder trial.

Morrell was asked his occupation. "Tombstone and mausoleum salesman," he answered calmly.

Judge Peter J. Brancato agreed with the defense attorney's objection and ordered Morrell's name stricken from the list of jurors to try murder cases.

CALLS MEETING ON POSTMASTER

Cave, Candidate Himself, Says Dems Meet Tonight to Take Up Endorsement.

Asserting that he is an applicant for the acting postmastership in Mansfield, Frank Cave, county Democratic executive committee chairman, said today he had called a meeting of the Mansfield members of the committee for tonight to "talk over an endorsement" for the job.

Although other Mansfield Democrats, including George Ballet, chairman of the election board, and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, have been mentioned for the acting postmastership, Cave said he had heard of no one else who is actively campaigning for the job. To qualify, an applicant must be under 63 years old.

Anyone named now by the postmaster general on an endorsement by the Democratic committee would serve only as acting postmaster until a successor to the late Herman E. Homberger, who was postmaster for nine years preceding his death last Friday, is chosen.

William T. Houston, assistant postmaster, is in charge until an acting postmaster is named. Houston is eligible for appointment as acting postmaster although it was learned he is not seeking the job.

Cave, former speaker of the

BOYS MISSING

3 Armed Lads Believed on Way To Try To Join Navy.

Missing from their homes since Tuesday afternoon, three 15-year-old Mansfield boys, armed with a shotgun and rifle and carrying a suitcase, were believed headed for Chicago to enlist in the navy, their parents told police last night.

The youths are Bruno Mollica, 102 Harker street; Billy Owen, 226 Sheridan avenue, and Christ Phillips, whose address was not given to police.

Sam Mollica, father of the Mollica boy, said he believed the trio planned to sell the two guns to obtain more money to get them to Chicago. When they left Tuesday, the youths took some clothing and an unknown amount of money with them, their parents said.

FISH NEWEST CROP PLAGUE

They Devour Potatoes and Beans Say Farmers.

BOLLES HARBOR, Mich.—(INS)—Farmers in this southeastern Michigan area who have for years battled seven-year locusts, cornborers, and Japanese beetles, today are plagued by a new pest.

Fish are eating their crops.

Hundreds of newly planted areas have been inundated by flood waters of the Raisen river, and — farmers solemnly swear — hungry carp are charging in, devouring beans, potatoes, and other crops.

GO ON, FISH

Ickes Says It's O. K. If You Don't Use Gasoline.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Harold L. Ickes, as coordinator of fisheries and at the same time petroleum administrator, said today that "we still think it's a good idea for sportsmen to fish when they can and where they can without extra gasoline."

White House Strike Parley Reported On

President Expected to Act, Possibly Late Today or Tomorrow, Against Crippling Walkout as WLB Plans National Dim-Out.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt called the CIO-AFL labor war board to the White House for a conference today amid increasing signs of some presidential action designed to end the stoppage of coal production by John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

The possibility of any action before late today, or perhaps tomorrow, appeared remote, however.

There was evidence that the White House and James F. Byrnes, new War Mobilization director, were working behind the scenes to bring the coal strike to a conclusion.

Nevertheless, presidential Secretary Stephen Early said he assumed the War Labor Board's order that negotiations between the operators and miners be halted until men are back in the coal pits still stands.

Members of the combined labor war board meet periodically with the president to consider all matters pertaining to labor in the war effort. There was no specific indication the chief executive would bring the coal dispute before it, although chances appeared to be good that he would go over the coal problems with the CIO and AFL leaders. The United Mine Workers have no representative on the board.

Those coming to the White House included President William Green of the AFL; Philip Murray, CIO president; Julius Emspak, secretary-treasurer of the CIO Electrical Workers Union; R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO Automotive Workers Union, and George Meany, AFL secretary. Early told the press he was neither forecasting nor anticipating any White House statement or action on the coal situation later on in the day.

He asserted:

"On the coal strike front there isn't as far as I can tell you now, any expectation of any announcement that can be given to the press at the present time."

Meanwhile, soft coal operators and United Mine Workers representatives resumed their joint wage conference this morning although both groups of operators have advised the war labor board they will obey its order not to negotiate the coal contract issues while production is interrupted.

What the conferees discussed was not disclosed but persons familiar with the conference rules said that final adjournment could not be taken without the consent of both sides.

Competent sources said the president was ready to issue the order that Lewis has withheld—an order directing the nation's 500,000 coal miners back to the pits pending settlement of their wage demands.

The order, it was reported, may come sometime today. If it follows patterns of the past, it-

RACE SQUABBLE CLOSES PACKARD

20,000 Employes Affected By Shutdown Over Upgrading of Colored Workers.

(By International News Service)

DETROIT—A racial controversy forced shutdown of the Packard Motor Car company early today affecting approximately 25,000 UAW-CIO employes.

The walkout climaxed a two-month feud between race factions which has resulted in sporadic strikes.

UAW-CIO officials declined to issue a statement today except that white workers are protesting upgrading of Negro employes.

A company spokesman said that white workers on the night shift began walking out of the plant shortly after 1 a. m., and continued to quit throughout the night.

A large force of night shift workers gathered at the plant gates at 7 a. m. and persuaded white workers on the day shift not to enter, the spokesman said.

The company manufactures Rolls Royce airplane engines and marine engines for the armed forces.

C. E. Weiss, Packard personnel manager, said that Negro workers remained on their jobs throughout the night and reported for work this morning.

Absence in great numbers of other workers, however, forced the

Ford Estate Tax Expected to Be 'Only' 12 Million

DETROIT —(AP)— The will of Edsel Bryant Ford was filed for probate today and, because it bequeathed the greater part of his Ford Motor company stock to the Ford Foundation, attorneys estimated estate inheritance and transfer taxes might not amount to much more than $12,000,000. Earlier reports, based solely upon conjecture, had placed the possible tax at as much as $200,000,000.

Attorneys said the estate itself probably would amount to $200,000,000.

Edsel, only son of Henry Ford and late president of the Ford Motor company, died last week at the age of 49.

The Ford Foundation, a nonprofit corporation, was organized in 1936 for educational and other purposes. Gifts to organizations of its type are not taxable.

That portion of the Ford stock not bequeathed to the Foundation is left in equal shares to Mrs. Eleanor Clay Ford, the widow, and each of the four children—Henry Ford II, Benson Ford, Mrs. Walter Buhl Ford II and William Clay Ford. The widow is made executrix.

ONE MORE ROUND

Special Council Meeting Set on Route 42 Project.

Final action on a contract with the state for widening and resurfacing U. S. Route 42 and State Rout 13 south from Central park and sections of Marion avenue and Park avenue west under a $74,000 project is scheduled for a special city council meeting at 8 p. m. Monday.

Approval by council of the state contract and plans for the job will enable the state highway department to advertise for bids on the work this month and let the contract in July, it was said.

Council Tuesday night agreed to the state's proposal which would require the city and property owners to contribute $30,000 to the cost of the work. The state would pay the rest. Three of the 10 pieces of legislation involved in the project are expected to go before council Monday night. Council passed two of them Tuesday night. After the contract is approved, council must provide for borrowing against the property owners' share of the cost and issuing bonds to finance the work.

Do You See the Handwriting, John?

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—George Moorad, CBS correspondent in Australia, read an "open letter to John L. Lewis" in his broadcast yesterday. The letter came from Private Byron M. Edgett of Des Moines, Ia., now in an army hospital in New Guinea. The text:

"Do you sometimes wonder what fighting men overseas think of the coal mine dispute in America? Well, I just received a letter from New Guinea, from a wounded buck private. He sent it to me as an open letter to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and I quote:

"'I am a soldier confined to a hospital in New Guinea, divorced from army functions and ability to assist the war effort as a civilian, and I feel even greater futility, with news from America of the strike of 500,000 coal miners under your domination.

"'Knowing the hard-headed, power-stricken, selfish attitude you have assumed toward your government, it is with small hope of influencing your actions that this is written. In this hospital there are fellows who have spent from a year to eighteen months overseas. Some are engineers who went through the Milne bay carnage, the Philippines and Java campaigns, some are artillery men and air force. About 50 per cent have wives, and half this number have families to support. Our average income, including government benefits, is $100 a month.

"'Should we strike for higher wages? What would your reaction be in our place? Living in mud and dust, fighting vermin and mosquitoes, suffering under a blazing sun, and always waiting for equipment—for planes and food—only to read that Americans at home are too concerned with personal welfare to worry about our precarious foothold, still slippery with the blood of our comrades. Are we, or are we not entitled to 100 per cent support from our country?

"'Would you like to think, Mr. Lewis, that by lengthening the war by a day, a week, a month, you have cost lives of thousands of men, unselfish men? These miners have fathers, sons and brothers in the service. When they realize that following your dictates will mean that more of their loved ones are not coming home, how will you maintain that you have been their champion?

"'So sir, I say to you, and to all of you, guard jealously those things we have given to your keeping, for one day those of us who do return will call for a strict accounting'."

Says Tony Belongs In Cage

Boxing Racket's Bad Enough Without Him.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—The boxing racket is bad enough as it is, but Tony Galento doesn't think so. He persists in trying to make it worse. Moreover he seems to keep achieving success in that direction from time to time.

A couple of months ago this pillar of truth and wisdom, if any, warned the populace that he threatened to infest any arenas that would have him in a come-back campaign. They might have taken heed from that, but instead he was permitted to enter the Tampa, Fla., ring Tuesday night against Herbie Katz and the aroma of the debacle still hangs like a thick fog over Tampa bay.

He finally achieved what the boxing commission seemed to regard as a push-out, instead of a knockout. He pushed, Katz fell down and the commission ordered both purses held up. However, the principals had outsmarted the commission in advance. There were no purses to be paid after the fight. They already had been collected.

Having quit in his corner to Max Baer and Buddy Baer in his last two bona fide fights, Galento should let that stand as his swan song and not further foist his nonsense off on the populace. They seemed to have had the right idea in Milwaukee a few nights ago when they pegged some tomatoes at him in the midst of one of his terrible exhibitions.

This is a particularly bad time for such nonsense as Galento is trying to get away with. They should put him back in his cage for the duration.

There was a time when that Galento was the biggest thing in boxing next to Joe Louis, the heavyweight champion. That was in the days when the late Joe Jacobs picked Galento up out of utter obscurity and made a title contender, then a challenger of him. At the time, Galento got more publicity than the champion.

Then, you remember what happened? It was in 1939 that Galento met Louis in one of New York's outdoor extravaganzas for the title, in those days now long since gone.

On that particular evening Galento was the toast of all the taverns in Jersey. He was the man who was going to belt out the greatest heavyweight we've seen in these times—and he came near doing it. For three rounds it was Galento's fight. He had knocked Louis down and he had made the champion grab and run.

Then in the fourth he ignored orders from his corner to continue fighting in a crouch and the world ended for him temporarily.

He walked out in that fourth round standing erect and determined to out-punch the champion, who had an edge in reach and height and speed. He landed a couple of inconsequential punches and then started a left hook that fairly hissed and sputtered as it missed Louis' chin.

That was all Louis needed. He let go with both hands and presently Galento was on the floor bleeding and knocked out.

Galento came back later to stop Lou Nova in the foulest victory of these times, then quit cold to Max Baer and Buddy Baer in order. That ended his career. Anything he does now is strictly filigree for a few bucks and the customers should be warned again that he never could fight much and he can't fight at all, now.

Brown Has Little Hope for Bucks

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—(U.P.)—Paul Brown, youthful coach of Ohio State's 1942 Big Ten football champions, believes his charges have little hope of repeating their victory next fall.

Brown, here to address a Buckeye alumni meeting, said last night he expected only 10 players out of the 57 who reported for spring practice to return in the autumn. The rest of the team will have to come from 17-year-old freshmen and sophomores, he said.

"And I can't expect much from them," he added. "They're taut, nervous and afraid they'll do something wrong."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Birds Hold Edge Over Toledo Hens

(By Associated Press)

The Columbus Red Birds held a slight edge over the Toledo Mud hens today in the two Ohio teams' nip and tuck battle for second-place in the American Association pennant race.

The Birds, who have been playing second fiddle to the hens since last Sunday when the Columbus club took over runner-up honors for a few minutes between games of a doubleheader with the Toledoans, surged back into the No. 2 slot by defeating Minneapolis last night as the Hens were losing to St. Paul, 3 to 0.

The Birds were forced to go 11 innings before downing Minneapolis 5 to 2. The triumph moved them to within two games of the league-leading Indianapolis Indians who lost to Kansas City 7 to 5.

At Milwaukee, 6,730 fans saw a "free" ball game after paying for pre-game entertainment supplied by boss man Bill Veeck. Louisville, too, joined in the "free" festivities and wound up with the victory, 9 to 7, although forced to go 10 innings.

Delegates Adopt 'Freedom From Want' Food Program

HOT SPRINGS MEET EVOLVES WORLD PLANS

Program Designed To Provide 'More, Better Nourishment For All Mankind.'

(By United Press)

HOT SPRINGS, Va. — The United Nations food conference—first effort of the Allied powers toward a better post-war world—ended today after adoption of a program designed to provide more and better nourishment for all mankind.

The final plenary session was held in the empire room of the Homestead hotel where delegates from 44 nations have worked for 17 days to produce a blueprint for a future world which they believe will eliminate much of the hunger and suffering of the past.

Principal accomplishment of the conference was an agreement to carry on its work through an interim commission to be established in Washington before July 15 and after that through permanent organizations which will work toward the goal of "freedom from want of food."

The delegates gathered for their final general session after being invited by President Roosevelt to meet him at the White House at 5 p. m. next Monday. The president at that time is expected to convey his personal congratulations for an auspicious beginning on United Nations collaboration during the immediate post war period and for the days to follow.

Conference Chairman Marvin Jones, summing up the work of the meeting in a closing speech today before the plenary session, declared that mankind in the future will have "not only the will but the means for freedom from want."

By winning security from hunger for all men we shall win security for free men from the rise and aggressions of tyrants," Jones said.

"By winning freedom from want we shall make all men strong enough to be free."

Richard K. Law, chairman of the British delegation, made the motion for adoption of the resolutions placed before the plenary session by the drafting committees. Law reviewed the work of the conference and declared its spirit of harmony and collaboration was a happy augury for continued unity among Allied Nations.

The food conference was convened May 18 in an atmosphere of some uncertainty because it was the first effort to bring the same allied unity to peace problems that is being devoted to winning the war.

In the 17 days of comparative isolation in this beautiful mountain resort, the representatives of 44 nations have lost whatever reserve they may have had at the start. The end found them a congenial, hard working group of men who were able to subordinate national considerations to the common good.

The food conference has been exploratory and on a technical level. Its conclusions are not binding on the governments or countries represented. It is expected, however, that the various governments will readily accept the proposal for an interim commission and the thesis of the conference that "the primary responsibility lies with each nation for seeing that its own people have the food needed for health and life."

OLDEST GALION TEACHER QUITS

Mathematics Instructor at Galion Retires After 37 In Schools.

GALION — One of Galion's oldest teachers in point of service, Miss Clara Garverick, who has taught a total of 37 years, 33 of which were spent in the Galion schools, will not be on the teaching staff when school starts in the fall.

Her resignation was received and approved at the monthly meeting of the Galion board of education Wednesday afternoon.

She plans to retire after teaching two years in a rural school, two years at Iberia, and the remaining 33 years at various buildings in Galion, the latter years being spent as Mathematics teacher in the eighth grade at Junior high school. She is a graduate of Iberia high school, but for a number of years has lived in Galion.

The board also received the resignation of O. J. Wisler, custodian at the South school.

The hiring of four teachers was also a part of the board's business. Harold E. Pixley will come to Galion from Mingo Junction, to take charge of instrumental music. He graduated from Oberlin college, and has eight years experience, having taught in Michigan, New Philadelphia, and at Mingo Junction.

Other teachers hired include Mrs. William Wagner (Juanita Curren), Mrs. Emmett Marshall, and Miss Wilma Crall, all Galion residents. They will be given their assignments later, Supt. M. A. Povenmire said today.

A civil service examination for janitors was also authorized by the board.

Coal bids were received and contracts were awarded to the Galion Equity Exchange and McDonald, local coal dealer. The purchase will be divided between these two bidders, the board needing 200 tons of Kentucky stoker at $6.86; 200 tons of Ohio egg at $5.00, and 200 tons of Ohio stoker at $4.50. Repairs to the various buildings were also discussed with O. J. Dewalt, custodian.

Rules Out Gifts For Instructors In First Aid Work

Gifts presented instructors by the Red Cross classes which they have conducted are becoming such a problem that the Executive board of the local Red Cross at the monthly meeting passed a rule prohibiting instructors from accepting gifts.

Reasons for the action are summed up in letters now being sent to instructors.

"The custom of gifts for instructors started in a small way as a friendly appreciation of the instructor's services. Now this has grown to such proportions that in many cases persons have felt they could not afford to take courses because of the cost of the gift. Instructors in all phases of Red Cross work have volunteered their time and effort for this cause and do not expect remuneration in any form," the letter states.

PREDICTS JAP, RUSSIAN WAR

Admiral Yarnell Says Nips Will Seize Soviet Bases In Asia.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, retired commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic fleet, declared today that the forthcoming Allied attack on Japan must come from Chinese bases.

Testifying before the house immigration committee in behalf of legislation to repeal the Chinese exclusion act, Yarnell predicted a war between Japan and Russia, but said that Russian bases would not be available for Allied attacks on the island of Japan.

"Russian bases would be occupied by Japanese troops soon after the Russo-Japanese war began," Yarnell declared.

"This leaves the mainland of Asia as the only area from which airpower, adequate to inflict decisive damage to Jap arsenals and munitions plants, could operate," the admiral stressed.

He said the Vladivostock area is "highly vulnerable" and would be difficult to hold against Japanese attack.

DELIVERY SET

City To Get Fire Ladder Truck In September, Mayor Told.

Delivery of a new $18,250 aerial ladder truck for the Mansfield fire department has been promised for next September, Mayor W. J. Locke said today.

The truck, which will replace the old unwieldly ladder equipment now in use, was ordered about four months ago from the Seagrove corporation in Columbus, the firm from which the city recently obtained a new pumper.

Meanwhile, the mayor said he was looking into the possibility of getting priorities on another pumper for delivery late this year or early in 1944. Purchase of the new equipment is being financed by the city's half mill fire levy.

ALLERGIC CONDITIONS STUDIED AT FORT BENNING HOSPITAL

(International News Service)

ORT BENNING, Ga.—The of an allergy clinic does not a composition covering, re-ess of the beauty, Major Mar-T. Davidson, chief of the Al-section at the Fort Benning on hospital, maintained.

convince Col. Edward A s, commanding officer of the tal, Davidson took a piece of roposed floor covering, cut it nto shreds and then by chem-means subjected all new pa-s to the extraction of protein. oximately 10 per cent showed ive reactions, thus proving najor's theory.

e covering was added to ap-mately 150 substances to n soldiers are allergic, and n sometimes may interfere or altogether their ability to on army activities.

ossibly giving a large num-of tests than any other such ic in the country with the ption of Walter Reed hos-l in Washington, D. C., the ic at Fort Benning deter-es the particular cause of an rgic condition and gives er treatment. It utilizes the t up-to-date methods of test-and treatment which are e expensive in civilian life.

ring the month of January, linic gave 322 patients 1,176 ments, sometimes as many as one day. Despite the fre-cy and severity of diseases d by allergic conditions, only ertificates of Disability Dis-es and 10 reclassifications issued from July 1942 to Jan-1943, the first six months linic operated.

hough the clinic usually gives d 80 to 90 tests to each pa-staff members can prepare tests and shots for almost any item or food conceivable. Treatments consist either of shots to desentize the patient, or avoidance of the substance causing his allergy.

The chief of this work, Davidson became one of the first allergists in the South. He spent 20 years in private practice of medicine, specializing in allergy at Birmingham, Ala., before he volunteered for army service July 1, 1942.

A graduate of Howard college and the medical school at the University of Cincinnati, he interned at Cincinnati's Christ hospital. Going east to do special work and obtain advanced training as an internist in 1922-23, he became interested in allergy clinics in Boston and New York. He then took up studies himself.

Davidson says science does not yet know the exact cause of the hypersensitivity characteristics of allergies, although heredity is suspected as a factor.

SPARKLE IN EMERGENCY

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—(U.P.)—Ten-months-old Margaret Mortz, by placing a live electric wire in her mouth, causing a burn which might have proved fatal, caused a demonstration of what can be done in the matter of first-aid relief. The necessary ointment for such an injury could only be located at San Francisco. A telephone call resulted in the police breaking open the door at night of a wholesale drug warehouse where the ointment was stored, placing it on a plane and rushing it to the bedside of the child in time to save a life.

PRESENTS BOOK IN MEMORY OF DR. J. A. SPENCE

Crestline Resident's Gift Tribute to Library Board Member 10 Years.

Among the new books going into circulation at Mansfield Public Library is one presented by Mrs. C. E DeWald of Crestline, in memory of the late Dr. J. A. Spence, a member of the library board for nearly 10 years before his death last winter.

CALIFORNIA AND THE WEST is the book presented. It contains unusual photographic reproductions of the western scene and descriptive text.

In 1937, Ernest F. Fox was commissioned to spend a year in Afghanistan searching for oil and minerals. In his book, TRAVELS IN AFGHANISTAN, he gives his impressions and tells how he crossed and recrossed the country by car, flew over it by plane, and traveled nearly 1,700 miles on horseback and on foot in the interior mountain districts, many of which had never been visited by a Westerner, and which would have appalled a less sinewy and courageous explorer.

The United States has proved to the world that it can turn its machinery to the uses of war with dramatic speed, it has not yet shown how effectively it can turn its thinking to that end. THIS TIME FOR KEEPS by John MacCormac has been written with the hope of helping the soldier and those whom he defends to understand why he must fight, what he fights against and, particularly what he fights for. It shows that we must fight for something better than the status quo, something better than a return to isolationism, something better than the purely negative desire not to be beaten.

NAZIS IN THE WOODPILE by Egon Glesinger is a survey of Germany's attempt to obtain a corner in the world's wood supply. The reasons for this course the author shows are two: first that the control of oil is contigent on complete victory over the Anglo-American partners but control of wood is not; and second, that wood has been made the backbone of their war economy.

Other non-fiction includes THE MIRACLES OF MILITARY MEDICINE, Maisel, THE WRIGHT BROTHERS, Kelly; THE NEAR EAST, ed. by Ireland TURKEY Ward; INSTRUCTION FOR TESTS IN THE ARMED FORCES, Vilmos, EUROPE AND THE FRENCH IMPERIUM, 1799-1811, Brunn; THUS BE IT EVER, Molendyk & Edwards, eds; ROY BEAN, LAW WEST OF THE PECOS, Sonnichsen, CHARACTERS MAKE YOUR STORY, Elwood; USAGE AND ABUSAGE, A GUIDE TO GOOD ENGLISH, Partridge.

THE PERILOUS JOURNEY by C. M. Sublette and Harry Harrison Kroll is an exciting and romantic tale of the Valley frontier in 1821 which was begun by Mr Sublette and finished by Mr Kroll after the former's death Jim Dalrymple started in a flatboat to float down Driftwood Fork of the White river, the Ohio and the Mississippi His object was not only to sell his stock but to find his father Here is the story of the river ride to New Orleans of his return by steamboat to Natchez and home overland by the famous Natchez Trace infested by a colorful band of desperadoes

THE STORY OF DR WASSELL by James Hilton author of Random Harvest is a true story of a navy doctor from Arkansas who got his wounded men out of Java through the turmoil of the Japanese invasion It is a narrative based on fact but told in fiction form with some changes of name but with no exaggeration of the simple heroism that won for its chief character, Lt Commander Corydon Wassell, the 58 year old doctor the navy cross for gallantry and a tribute from President Roosevelt.

JUST BEFORE DAWN by Anne Green is the story of a young American girl—located in Paris between the two great wars—which succeeds in capturing the spirit of French life in the placid years, and the heartbreak of defeat and invasion as it touched the common people of a once-great nation Elizabeth Elliott, with the help of her husband uncle and some British airmen, perfected some plans for aid to the Free French, and the story revolves around this background

Other fiction includes AIR SURGEON Slaughter SWEET BEULAH LAND Harris THE SCARLET CIRCLE, Webb

There are about 23,500,000 telephones in the United States

Tries SPAR Hat and Likes It

Though trying on a uniform hat is not like picking out a new spring hat, what WAVE or SPAR applicant doesn't want to see what sort of figure she will cut in her new outfit Arleen Ridenour, daughter of Mr and Mrs. H. D. Ridenour, 517 Lily street, is shown above donning a SPAR cap while Ensign Velma Varner of the WAVES looks on approvingly. Though Arleen is not an applicant for either service she decided the cap looked better than most of the latest creations in women's hats Ensign Varner has been in Mansfield since Monday to recruit WAVES and SPARS in the intensive recruiting drive "A Week With the WAVES." The temporary recruiting office at 37 Park avenue west will be open every day this week from 9 a m. to 9 p. m and girls between the ages of 20 and 35 may get information about the two services at the recruiting office. Today Lieut (j g) Mary Arbenz o the SPARS and Yoeman Alice Berg of the WAVES will replace Ensign Varner and Seaman Marjorie French of the SPARS in the Park avenue recruiting office.

SEEKS WOMEN FIREMEN

CHINO, Cal.—(U P)—One more heretofore exclusively male profession appears to be giving away by war necessity to being taken over by women. This is that of the professional fire fighter. Fire Chief Arthur Wagner, with the ranks of his fire fighters decimated by wartime demands, has asked permission of the city council to train women fire fighters. Ten have already signed up for preliminary training

Mess Sergeant Cites Four Ways To Save Food

RANDOLPH FIELD, Texas —(NNS)— Here, ration-harried housewife, is a kitchen manager who can feed 500 men three substantial meals and at day's end carry all the resultant waste in one hand.

The lad with the answer to war-shortened food budgets is the typical army mess sergeant at Randolph Field His four-point formula is simple.

1. Carefully-controlled portions ladled out to diners. Everybody gets enough, but not too much.

2. Don't allow food to be left on trays.

3. Reprocess leftovers into appetizing new dishes. Untouched food left in serving pans goes into the squadron refrigerator. Cooked vegetables go into salads and stews, meat into hash, bread into puddings.

4. Salvage all useful inedibles like grease and bones for conversion into needed products.

And even the few gallons of platter scrapings from more than 1,500 meals daily at a typical squadron is salvaged. It is sold to hog raisers to be converted into pork chops and breakfast bacon for American tables.

DEHYDRATION WONDER

BERKELEY, Cal.—(U.P.)—The nutritional department of the University of California has endo the American table with its ch est tidbit and the American bo ing-house keeper with her gr est standby. It is a dehydr prune.

Academy Award?

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Human Comedy," now playing at the Ohio has made a big hit with Mansfield moviegoers as well as fans throughout the nation. And the critics are acclaiming the film as a candidate for the Motion Picture Academy's award for the outstanding picture of the year. Mickey Rooney is seen in the top role, playing the part of a high school boy who goes to work in a telegraph office to help support his widowed mother. Mickey's older brother, Marcus, enters the army, leaving Mickey the burden of supporting his mother, a five-year-old brother and a sister. The picture presents a typical American family.

Air Raid Wardens.

After their attempt to establish a pet shop falls through, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy decide to join the army, leaving a note on the door of the shop informing their creditors of their intentions. But the two comedians are turned down by the army. Believing it their patriotic duty to assist the war effort in some way, they decide to become air raid wardens. When they enforce a blackout merely to show their authority they are fired. Other Madison attraction is "The Man in the Trunk."

Fighting Guerrillas.

"Chetniks," the story of the fighting guerrillas, continues today at the Ritz. Philip Dorn is seen as the leader of the Chetniks. It is upon his orders that the fighting guerrillas move down from the hills to blast enemy ammunition dumps, blow up bridges and disrupt enemy communications. The story is built around Norway's fight against the Axis powers. Bill Elliott plays the top role in Republic's "Calling Wild Bill Elliott," other attraction.

Spy Picture.

Troopship torpedoed! Waterfront blaze traced to spies! Coal mines flooded by saboteurs! Tanker set afire! These are a few of the headlines that blaze across the big town papers. But that's before John Beal enters the picture. Beal, playing the part of an on-the-spot radio commentator who broadcasts the news as it happens, uncovers the evidence that leads to the capture of a huge Nazi spy ring. This action highlights the Park's top attraction, "Stand by All Networks." Other picture is "The Payoff."

RALEIGH, N. C.—(U.P.)—Cecil Bell, State Conservation and Development department industrial engineer, is satisfied people read their newspapers carefully.

Bell recently asked North Carolina papers to publish an appeal for vacant industrial plants, needed to meet current demands for manufacturing space.

A few days later the first inquiry arrived. The writer had a large plant ready for occupancy.

Only trouble was the plant is in Cheraw, S. C.

MARKET TREND BEFOGGED IN EARLY TRADES

Bank Clearings Take Holiday Drop From Preceding Week, Beat 1942.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The trend direction continued somewhat foggy in today's early stock market proceedings.

Up fractions at a quiet opening were Dow Chemical, National Biscuit, Texas Co., and U. S. Rubber. Small declines were posted for U. S. Steel, Chrysler and United Aircraft.

Observers, scanning the bank clearings summary of Dun & Bradstreet for price clues, found that these transactions in 23 cities for the week ended Wednesday, while down substantially from the preceding week because of the Memorial holiday, exceeded the comparable 1942 period by 23.4 per cent.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Little change was shown in grains at the opening today. Moderate hedging pressure forced wheat fractionally lower, but rye and oats held firm. Trading was quiet.

Wheat started ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher. July $1.44¼ to $1.44, September $1.44 to $1.43⅞, and rye was unchanged to ⅜ higher, July 95½-¾.

Detectives Refuse to Dig Up Victory Plot for Gems.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Three Cincinnati detectives went to Hamilton on a treasure hunt yesterday but abandoned the project rather than disturb a victory garden.

Informed by Los Angeles police that a 22-year-old prisoner held there had confessed burying 10 wedding ring sets and 15 watches in a tool chest in his back yard the officers visited the home and found a thriving garden. The prisoner's parents expressed doubt that he had buried anything there, the detectives said

IT WAS EERIE

NEW YORK — (UP) — Joseph Smith, a salesman, walked into a Greenwich Village cafe last night to buy a pack of cigarettes. The lights were on and there were some empty and half-filled glasses on the bar. But the place was deserted.

Smith looked over the bar. There on the floor was the body of the bartender, 27-year-old Warren E. Cadigan. He had been shot four times. There were no signs of a struggle and the cash register was untouched.

AN APPLE FOR EVE --

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1943)

CHAPTER XXV

Loveday had no word from Chris for some days. Then she wrote Aunt Laura she was coming to see her for a few days and Chris sent a note asking to be permitted to drive her in. At first she decided against it but then she considered it foolish to decline so simple a request. On the way, they stopped at a very Frenchy eating place near Palo Alto.

Various groups of late lunchers were scattered about the shady, cool interior of L'Omelette when Chris and Loveday, hot and dusty, went in but presently they had the place to themselves. Loveday had gone to the dressing room for a thorough brushing and dusting and rejuvenating process; she emerged looking trim and fresh, with her eyes as eager as those of a child.

"This is a great adventure!" she said finding Chris at the small window table that was tucked into an inconspicuous corner.

"Yes, this is an adventure."

"How wonderful to be raving hungry and to know that just the food you want has been gotten ready for you by someone you don't know and never will see," she began enthusiastically. "I never thought of it exactly that way," Chris answered.

"It's been so long since I've done anything quite as daring as this, and I'm loving it!"

Chris looked at her thoughtfully, spoke unsmilingly.

"Very intoxicating talk."

"Well, but I'm intoxicated!" she apologized. "Going to Aunt Laura's house is always enough to send me straight into seventh heaven! You St. Georges are simply amazing people. I don't think that, even to you, your lives seem commonplace. But when they're contrasted to—well, say Buckingham Way in Bakersfield—!"

"I never saw that house. But Hugh described it to me. Were you completely yourself when you married your husband?" he asked after a silence.

"Quite as much as a girl ever is. But you had a finger in that, Chris."

"I did?"

"Yes. Hugh—only he was Marc then—and Rod and Nini and I had gone down to visit you and Merle in Hollywood, remember? Merle had gone up to her people in Stockton for some reason or other, and you did the honors."

"I remember every minute of it. Every instant."

"It was a week in Bagdad for me!" she said, her eyes fixed on far space. "I went a little crazy—I didn't realize that what was adding part of the glamour—what was really making it—I mean. I hadn't thought that all the times I was liking you."

"I see."

"I thought of you as belonging to Merle, of course" Loveday, regaining a little dignity as she went on, explained simply. "You were the St. George's big brother, of whom they were so terribly proud—"

"I suppose so," he said slowly.

"That what was making me so happy, making it all seem so magical," she pursued, "had anything to do with you never occurred to me in all those days."

"You didn't know. I knew," Chris told her.

"It was Nini who saw it," the girl went on. "And the minute she spoke of it it came to me like a thunderbolt—of course that was it! I couldn't bear it—being ashamed and shocked and frightened, and afraid that your mother would be angry at me. I had been alone or with older people all my life until I met you, and then I was so touched that your mother and father liked me, that you all did, and that you included me in all your happiness, that the thought that I'd lost your respect—well, I think I went a little crazy! I was sick, honestly sick, and I didn't know whom to turn to or what to do!"

"So that when you got to Bakers field there seemed a way out?"

"It was a sort of refuge." She took him up eagerly.

"But if you'd faced it out, come home to my mother, broken your engagement with him, she would have understood. She would have forgiven you, if there'd been anything to forgive. Nini probably would have worked off that little girl spitefulness of hers, probably wouldn't have said anything to my mother at all. As for Rod, he puts you in a place apart. He might never have won you, but he always would have—always has—thought of you as the perfect woman!"

"And I love Rod," she said, her eyes far away and faintly smiling. "If it had been Rod—if I could have felt that way about Rod—" she began again and stopped short.

"Felt what way?" Chris followed it up in his unhurried fashion.

"Happy all the time," she answered simply.

"But you never," he said slowly, "felt that way about Rod?"

"No." She put a spoonful of orange ice into her mouth and looked at him seriously.

"Nor Larry? If you don't mind my being your father-confessor."

"No, nor Larry," she answered hesitatingly.

"But it's very silly," she broke off to say with a sudden return to everyday common sense, "because it is all over and done with, and I am a settled, middle aged woman with two daughters and a son to raise."

"All of twenty-five, aren't you?"

"Twenty-six."

"As for everything being over and done with at twenty-six, that is a manifest absurdity," he said. You've given me your side of the story. I wish you'd let me give you mine."

"From the moment I met you at Mother's house six years ago I knew that every woman I had ever dreamed of had come to life. Rounded, like one of the pre-Raphaelites' omen, and tall, with thick brown hair with a gold sheen on it.

"I was married to Merle then; we had been married for ten years, but I never had been married to Merle in one sense. From the beginning it was a compromise. I don't know whether you knew that Merle had been extremely pretty. I met her when I was holding my first job as a newspaper reporter and they sent me to Stockton to do a flower pageant. She and her three sisters were on a float with Washington and Columbia and the Graces and Cupid and I don't know what else, all garlanded with ropes of hydrangea and roses and white stock. Merle was Martha Washington, in hoop skirts and ringlets. She said she liked the hoop skirts and nobody would know the difference anyway. So Martha wore hoop skirts. And that was like your Hollywood week. Everything was roses and hospitality and dancing and excitement. Every girl had a beau, and I was Merle's. Now suppose I told you there are women who are destined to careers. They aren't always geniuses themselves; perhaps usually they're not. But their biographies get written, and they leave their mark upon their own generation.

"Suppose I meet such a woman. It isn't that she is more beautiful than other women. When I meet her first she is only a young girl, awkward—divinely awkward—but I know then that she is such a woman. In her bigness and her ignorance and her inexperience, yet it's all written there—magnificence."

"I like to hear you say those things, Chris. But they aren't true."

"I'm telling you what's true to me, not necessarily what you think of yourself. Well, I get to know this girl a little better, and it—it doesn't leave my own pulses unstirred. She dreams a dream perhaps in a few days in Hollywood, but I do too. Everything seems to be swimming about in a sort of —opalescent glory, and I sense the beauty of life as I never sensed it before."

"Yes, I know," she agreed quickly in a whisper.

"So that when I hear a few weeks later that my career woman was to be married to keep a childhood promise—"

"Not quite! If I—if she was twenty when she made the promise!"

"But she might be a child at twenty after such a childhood," he reminded her. "Well, I hear that she is married and hear years later that there are children and that she is struggling with poverty and heat and hard work and fatigue. She the blue-veined hands have been roughened with dishwashing and cooking—"

"And gardening and swimming in the old dam and picnics!" she put in.

"And that she had been deserted by the husband," Chris said, playing his trump card; "he has left her to carry the entire responsibility of their venture herself."

"Not quite that. He wanted the responsibility. One reason he was angry was that I was the important one if either of us were," Loveday told him conscientiously.

"And then I think," Chris pursued it, unimpressed, "of what that woman's life might be if she chose to take the freedom he has so unceremoniously offered her: a writer husband who adores her and who can give her the society, the position for which she is fitted. A modern colonial house on Long Island.

"This divorced woman with three children," she said.

"Certainly. "Mrs. St. George was married before; the children are hers'," Chris conceded; "that's all there'd be to that. And what of it? Surely, brought up as I was in a big family with cousins all over the place, the more laughing running around and noise the better! What if they do come West to visit their father's people now and then? They may not like it, but that'll all straighten out. Kids take that sort of thing for granted. And painters will paint you, Loveday, as they did Rossetti's wife, and poets will write to you as Francis Thompson did to his Egeria, and your husband will plot all his plays about you."

"It's hard not to want all that, Chris," she said simply with one reproachful look as she got to her feet. She was trembling inwardly as she went to the car. He would know that, of course, he would know just the effect of those words on any woman.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Boys who want to read radio books should watch for these books which will be put out for use in the children's section of the Mansfield Public Library Saturday.

MODERN RADIO ESSENTIALS by Kenneth Hathaway is a more difficult technical book but should be useful to the older boys with some experience in radio or with some knowledge of the principles. Beginning adults will also find the books full of elemental facts. There is a chapter describing the principles of television at the end.

A different type of book about radio is YOUR CAREER IN RADIO by Carlisle and Rice. Radio as a career which offers many kinds of opportunity is outlined in this book. Stress is placed not on the well-known network positions, but on the various kind of work done by those who operate the smaller stations. Many talents must be developed before a person can hope to specialize to become a well-known radio personality. Included is a list of schools of higher education which offer courses in radio and a summary of network opportunities is provided.

FDR CALLS IN CIO, AFL CHIEFS FOR CONFERENCE

President Expected To Act Today or Tomorrow on Coal Strike.

lowing the men several days to return to their jobs, actual coal production could be achieved again by Monday.

The president's attitude was described after he conferred for more than an hour and a half with seven members of the war labor board, War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, Interior Secretary Ickes, who has been government operator of the mines since May 1, and Undersecretary Abe Fortas.

The miners quit work at midnight Monday upon expiration of the contract between the United Mine Workers and the operators. The UMW is demanding a pay increase of $2 a day for the miners.

The war labor board, rescented and ignored by Lewis, watched nearly two days of futile negotiations between the union and producers and yesterday ordered them halted. The WLB said bargaining conducted during a strike was "coercive." Lewis and his union, the board declared, "challenge the government of the United States in time of war."

The operators promised they would abide by the board's order and call off negotiations. Lewis declared the WLB was acting "illegally" in taking such a step.

Thereupon the whole issue was shipped to the White House for want of any other place to go.

Mr. Roosevelt, it was said, reviewed the entire background of the wage demands. Secretary Ickes was reported as suggesting the men be given $1 a day, half the amount sought. This was rejected on grounds such a settlement would bypass the war labor board and the generally accepted channels set up to handle wartime labor disputes. The WLB itself said the UMW was flouting labor's no-strike pledge and the government's whole labor policy was at stake.

Wayne L. Morse, a public member of the board, sent a letter to the president which the White House later made public, in which Morse declared the walkout was "a reckless and wanton disregard" of labor's pledge to stay on the job for the war effort. Morse said the strike—without "parallel in American history"—was a direct challenge to the law and "must be met by the government."

The gravity of the situation aroused new protests in congress. Senator Byrd, (D., Va.) issued a statement asking "who is boss of the United States? John L. Lewis or President Roosevelt?"

The house agreed after an hour's debate in which Lewis was mentioned to take up a bill outlawing strikes in government-operated industry for the duration of the war.

The war production board, it was learned, had drawn up plans to dim the nation's lights on a moment's notice as a fuel saver. The plans call for eliminating ornamental lighting, curtailment of show window, theater and outdoor advertising displays.

From one sector of the coal fields—Alabama—came a report that even the maintenance men had joined the walkout. Ross C. Smith, government manager, warned the layoffs by the men assigned to the pumps, ventilation and other machinery threatened "a serious situation."

Miners Insist They Want Contract

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Striking coal miners in sections of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, discussing prospects of returning to the pits they abandoned three days ago, said today they would rather go back under a definite working contract than under a truce pending settlement of their wage dispute.

President Robert Ross of the Hemphill, W. Va., local of the United Mine Workers, said it voted to adhere to the union position of "no contract, no work." The local has 750 members.

In Pennsylvania, Andrew Matone, president of UMW local 524 at Harwick, said:

"Our men want a contract. They are tired of this off and on business. I wouldn't be surprised if they would even refuse to go back under another truce."

"We're not going back this time on promises," was the comment of George Polovsky, a coal cutter, given at Fairbanks, near Uniontown, as he leaned on the backyard fence he was repairing.

"I'll do anything the government wants me to do but I won't work for nothing," said Polovsky. We went back before without a contract but I don't see how it'll do us any good now unless we get something definite."

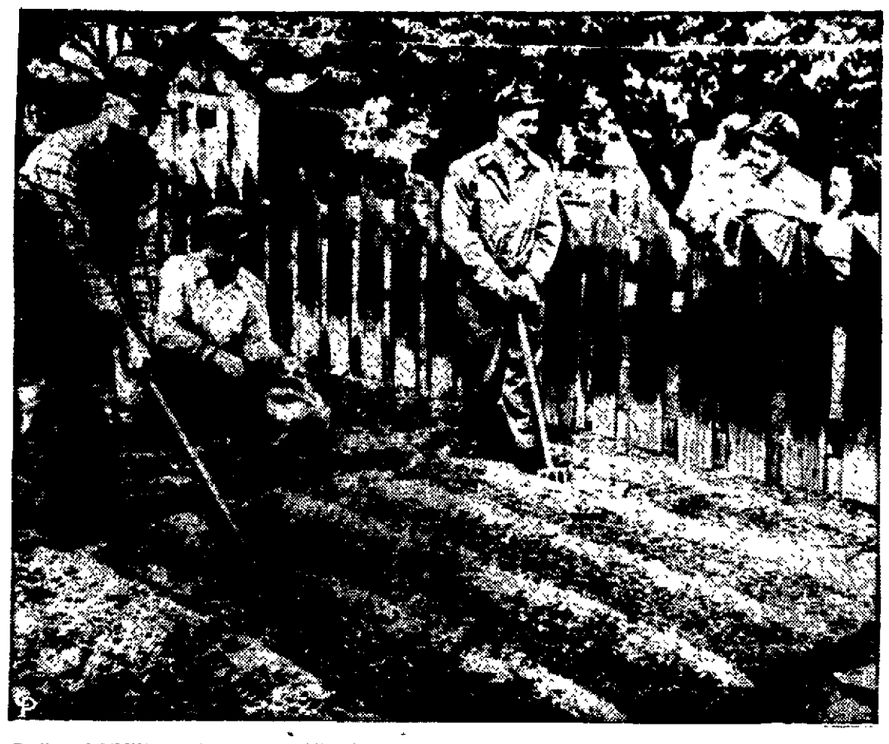
Fear Curtailment Of Steel Output

CHICAGO — (INS) — A critical shortage of coal to run the blast furnaces in the huge steel mills in the Chicago area was foreseen today if the nation's coal miners remain on strike.

Spokesmen for the coal and steel industries said coal supplies for the furnaces were nearing "rock bottom" and that the production of steel, vitally important to the war effort, inevitably must be curtailed unless the men return to the mines soon.

Other industries, including war plants, were in better shape and it was not anticipated they would be inconvenienced unless the strike should be prolonged. Most of the large industries were said to have ample supplies of coal on hand, sufficient to tide them over for several months.

Out of Mines, So Gardens Get Attention



Strike of UMW members has closed the coal mines, so these miners at Throop, Pa., use their idle time to tend their Victory garden. Nearly half a million hard and soft coal miners have left the pits while contract negotiations between union leaders and coal operators remain at an impasse.

Fund for Playgrounds Oked, Fendrick to Direct Program

plans as consisting of separate meetings at the three parks where volunteer organizations have already been organized and one final meeting of all volunteer workers where the overall aims of the program will be explained

At the present Liberty, Johns, and Prospect parks have organized volunteer workers recruited from housewives in the immediate vicinities of the parks. Fendrick hopes to be able to organize workers at North Lake park in the near future.

Members of the two committees which considered the request for funds were in agreement concerning the need for the playgrounds now that many mothers are busy through the day at defense jobs, Dent said. This is the first time in three years that the playgrounds have been operated following their closing in 1940 because of insufficient funds to carry out the regular summer program.

Members of the two committees meeting jointly also voted last night to give $5,000 of the remaining $8,816 in the contingency fund of the Community and War Chest to the National War Fund. At the time this money was subscribed it was earmarked for war relief agencies. Recently it was decided that war relief money could best be handled through the national organization and all local agencies are now turning these funds over to the national war fund.

Committee members voted to begin to pay the local and national USO on a monthly basis until Jan. 1. The national organization will receive $1,789 monthly during this time and the local organization $178 a month.

June 16 was set by the committees as the date of the annual meeting of the trustees of the Community and War Chest. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. at the Chamber of Commerce room.

Costs Her $3 for Attempts to Beat 35c Meal Check

CRESTLINE — You may be able "to get away with murder in Crawford county" as Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon charged, recently but you can't get away with a 35-cent meal.

On a warrant issued here, Crestline police went to Mansfield yesterday to return Mary E. Montgomery, colored, who was accused with walking out of a downtown restaurant without paying for her meal.

Arraigned before Mayor C. W Kindinger she pleaded guilty and was ordered to pay the restaurant owner and the cost of the round trip to Mansfield which amounted to little more than $3.

Earlier this week in common pleas court at Bucyrus, Glore Bevard, Camp Millard soldier, was handed a suspended fine and jail sentence on a charge of assault and battery in the strangulation death of Mrs. Wilma Reed, with whom he shared an apartment.

Ohio Mines Idle For Third Day

BELLAIRE —(UP)— Mines in the eastern Ohio coal fields remained idle for the third day today as the state's 25,000 miners continued to ignore all requests to return to work.

There were no reports of a back-to-work movement at any of the state's coal operations. A few scattered strip and non-union mines continued to operate, but the number was negligible.

Question FDR Lack Of Action On Strike

WASHINGTON— (U P) —As the house began its second day of debate on the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill, Republicans raised the question today of whether President Roosevelt's "failure to act" in the coal dispute may be to repay a debt to John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers.

Rep. Dewey Short of Missouri, floor leader of the Republican supporters of the bill, told the house during debate yesterday:

"Could the $500,000 raised by United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis for his (Mr. Roosevelt's) 1936 campaign have had any influence upon him? If some people were as interested in winning the war quickly as they are in a fourth term, the country would not be in its present tragic plight, and we would not be debating this bill today."

CALLS MEETING ON POSTMASTER

Cave, Candidate Himself, Says Dems Meet Tonight to Take Up Endorsement.

Ohio house of representatives, called the executive meeting only yesterday, too late to permit mailing notices to members, said Miss Mary Newcomer, acting secretary of the committee

The executive chairman said he had contacted only the Mansfield area members of the committee since they were the ones who are primarily concerned with the city postmastership.

The postmaster general can name the acting postmaster from the ranks of men in the postoffice, on the endorsement of the county executive committee, or from an eligible list established in a civil service examination.

A civil service examination for postmaster, open to all applicants, will be conducted later. From the highest men on the list, President Roosevelt will name the successor to Postmaster Homberger.

SEATTLE—(U.P.)—The Alaskan Eskimos put to shame the patriot who thinks his duty is done when he invests 10 per cent of his wages in war bonds.

Maj. M. R. Marston, Alaska Defense Command officer, suggested that the Eskimos invest 10 per cent of their income in bonds. An old chief replied, "we put it all in bonds," and asked for $15,000 worth.

"When I told them we neded a road to a certain point the Eskimos said 'United States—she good,' and ignored a threat of starvation to themselves to complete the road with volunteer labor," Major Marston said.

He said, all three had valid reasons for driving.

company to suspend operations, he said.

State and federal labor conciliators have been aware of the situation since the first flareup between the two factions and have been attempting to settle differences

Packard production was interrupted only a week ago when 300 employes from the Rolls Royce motor repair department refused to report for work following a strike of similar workers on the midnight shift.

In that instance, Negro workers stayed away from their jobs protesting discrimination.

2,000 Negroes Quit Arms Jobs

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—More than 2,000 Negro employes at the St. Louis ordnance plant were on strike today.

Officials said the men walked out from one unit at the plant, refusing to work under the supervision of white foremen.

Negro employes, plant officials said, were selected recently for training as supervisors to replace the white foremen.

Strikers Halt Milk Deliveries

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— A strike of AFL drivers against an order of the Office of Defense Transportation to make deliveries every other day virtually halted home deliveries of milk in Pittsburgh today.

The drivers said they objected to having to deliver double loads on every-other-day trips.

Many hundreds of gallons of milk were dumped into sewers because dairies lacked storage space.

Milk deliveries to stores were not affected by the strike.

This will not prevent a milk famine in the city, however, if the strike continues, as the milk drivers' union has declined to increase its wholesale deliveries.

The public was able to get milk by going to dairies.

Federal conciliators were attempting to settle the dispute.

ALLIES SINK 3 SHIPS IN BOLD ATTACK AT SEA

Warships Smash Axis Convoy Off Italian Coast; 137 Vessels Quit 'Rock.'

ships—troop transports, freighters, merchantmen, tankers and a hospital ship—steamed into the Mediterranean at dawn yesterday en route to North African ports, it was reported.

Previously, an Allied armada of three battleships, three aircraft carriers, several cruisers and destroyers was said to have left "The Rock" for destinations unknown.

Allied headquarters gave no inkling of explanation for these reports, but declared a small force of Allied destroyers attacked an Axis convoy off Capo Spartivento, just off the southern tip of Sardinia, and sank two enemy merchant ships and an escorting torpedo boat and drove an enemy destroyer ashore in flames

"Our forces suffered no casualties or damage," it was announced.

Capo Spartivento lies off the toe of the Italian boot.

The London News Chronicle quoted French reports from Madrid as saying an Allied invasion of Pantelleria could be expected momentarily and that the shore-bound Italian fleet was "prepared to steam into battle at an hour's notice."

The Italian communique gave no details on the new bombardment of Pantelleria, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said only that Allied bombers attacked the island yesterday, along with sweeps over San Antioco island off Sardinia and over the Aegean sea.

Allied naval forces had previously shelled the island Sunday and Tuesday.

Pantelleria lies 45 miles east of Cap Bon, Tunisia, and is strategically important as a potential stepping-stone for an invasion of Sicily or the Italian mainland

A Berlin broadcast, discussing two invasion articles in the German army organ Die Wehrmacht, stressed the possibility of Allied thrusts into Europe from several directions, and declared:

"An Anglo-American expeditionary force might perhaps succeed in crossing the Mediterranean and landing somewhere in southern Europe, but it would not have the slightest chance in battle against Axis continental armies with their millions of well-trained and well-equipped troops."

Coupled with this boast of Axis invincibility, the broadcast conceded the Allies "might perhaps succeed in obtaining a foothold at some points on the Norwegian coast for some time."

"It cannot be denied, of course, that the Anglo-American occupation of Tunisia created a new situation in the Mediterranean," the broadcast added. "It would be foolish to ignore the fact that the Anglo-Americans now are in a position to use the bases in Tunisia for offensive operations against Europe."

Berlin previously had named June 22 as "der tag" for the Allies' grand assault on Europe.

Other war headliners:

RUSSIA — Hitler turns on sudden burst of air power, 500 Nazi planes attack Soviet base at Kursk; Russians say 123 German aircraft shot down at Kursk, 37 in Caucasus, 25 at Leningrad; 2,000 Nazis killed in two-day battle on northwest front.

CHINA—Chinese armies storm within 12 miles of big Japanese base at Ichang; Chungking spokesman says Japanese retreating on whole upper Yangtze river front, suffering 30,000 casualties out of 100,000 troops; Tokyo admits Japanese operations are "successfully concluded."

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—U. S. bombers drop 156 tons of explosive on Japanese bases in New Guinea in week-long offensive, six raids unchallenged by single Japanese plane.

WASHINGTON — Military experts, reviewing year's events since battle of Midway, see ultimate wreckage of Japanese war hopes.

LONDON — Germans believed gunning for Churchill when shot down Lisbon-to-London air liner carrying Actor Leslie Howard.

In the Mediterranean, dispatches from Allied headquarters said American warplanes swept over "Mussolini's Rock" at Pantelleria island almost at will yesterday, smashing buildings in the port area, and shot up bivouacked troops and radio installations in southern Sardinia.

Both islands, along with Sicily, would be likely prime objectives in an Allied invasion sweep across the Mediterranean from North Africa.

On the Russian front, Adolf Hitler turned a sudden and violent burst of air power against the Soviet base at Kursk, 300 miles south of Moscow.

Military analysts saw three possible explanations for the mass assault on Kursk, the biggest undertaken by the Germans for months:

1. An attempt to smash Soviet preparations for a summer offensive, perhaps synchronized with an Allied invasion of Europe.

2. A "softening up" assault preluding a German offensive.

3 The beginning of a big-scale Nazi aerial campaign against Russia, now that the German air force has been virtually swept back from the Mediterranean.

Deadlock Broken In French Parley

BULLETIN

(By United Press)

Gen. Henri Giraud and Gen. Charles De Gaulle have reached an agreement and constituted the French national committee at Algiers with Giraud and De Gaulle as "joint presidents," according to broadcasts by the London radio.

ALGIERS — (UP) — Members of the French executive committee met today after expressing an intention to declare their organization the governing body for liberated France, but it was indicated when the session closed that this measure still was pending.

No official announcement was made.

The meeting broke a two-day deadlock during which no meetings were held. Tension was evident in Algiers.

Gen. Henri Giraud's troops guarded key points in the city after a series of differences arising between him and Gen. Charles De Gaulle, and there remained some uncertainty what course today's meeting would take.

The British minister, Harold MacMillan, told correspondents last night, however, that he and American Minister Robert Murphy hoped the long months of negotiation just ended "will culminate in the rebirth of a nation."

Try To Frighten Italian Populace

(By Associated Press)

Apparently striving to frighten the Italians into a last-ditch fight, an Italian military spokesman declared in a broadcast from Rome today that "our fate will be terrible and atrocious should we lose this war."

"Nobody will be spared," he said.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, went on to allege that Allied air raids were "cold-blooded mass murder of our unarmed civilian population."

"Enemies of Italy are promising peace and leniency in exchange for dishonor, shame and slavery," the spokesman said. "They are playing to the tune of making a distinction between the Italian people and the fascist regime. This is sheer unscrupulous propaganda and no Italian will be such a fool as to believe it."

Winged-Freight Near Burma Road Figure

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Wings over the Himalayas soon will equal in effectiveness the delivery of military supplies by way of the Burma road—but the Allies still want the Burma road back.

Sources that cannot be quoted reported today that on the basis of information direct from China cargo planes now are flying army goods from India in a gross tonnage amounting to about one-third of that which was trucked over the highway before it fell to the Japanese.

In a month or so they will be carrying nearly two-thirds of the Burma road monthly average. And that, it was explained, will mean virtual replacement of the old Burma road volume as far as military value is concerned because it's all army supplies now, whereas much of the old truck shipments were commercial goods.

Wewak Ripped By New Bomb Raid

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia —(UP)— Allied planes, in their attempt to break up Japan's chain of New Guinea coastal bases, dropped 24 tons of bombs on Wewak yesterday, a communique said today.

The raid brought the total number of bombs dropped on the three major northeast coast bases at Wewak, Lae and Madang in a single week to 156 tons. Sixty-six tons hit Wewak alone.

Chinese Take Two Cities From Japs

BULLETIN

CHUNGKING —(AP)— Chinese troops have driven to the right bank of the Yangtze opposite Ichang in an air-supported counter-offensive against the Japanese and have surrounded 4,000 of the invaders farther down the great river, the high command announced tonight.

CHUNGKING —(UP)— Victorious Chinese forces, led by two of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's ablest commanders and aided by the 14th U. S. Air Force, drove a demoralized Japanese army back all along the Yangtze river front today after capturing two important cities.

A military spokesman revealed that the Chinese had recaptured Changyang, 15 miles southwest of the big enemy base of Ichang along the Yangtze, and Chikiang, on the south bank of the river some 30 miles southeast of Ichang.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1943.

Time flies—but seldom so fast as when the boy is home on a furlough.

The Chinese are credited with "inventing civilization"—and they may now regret that they let it spread.

To the sociologist's assertion, "Most people can't stand prosperity," the factual reply can be made, "Most people don't have to."

More Than One Strike Involved

EVEN MORE important than the few days' work stoppage in coal mines, which is seriously impeding the national war effort, is the matter of taking some effective action to guard against other large and small strikes which either directly or indirectly interfere with the production or distribution of war materials.

It may be assumed that President Roosevelt, as commander-in-chief of the army and navy, will quickly find a way to return striking miners to their jobs, either willfngly or by compulsion.

This is more than a strike by a half million coal miners—it is a test of power between union leaders and authorized agencies of government.

The situation is made more critical by the fact that it comes in the midst of war but the matter of governmental restraint on labor unions, now being considered by congress, will become as essential to orderly procedure in peace-time as it is now.

Inclination of politicians to cater to minority groups, rather than to act in behalf of the general welfare, has been one of the obvious weaknesses of democracy—and one that should be corrected as quickly as possible.

Six Months Without Rental Charge

SUSPENSION of sewer rental charge for the six months starting July 1, as decided upon by city council, is justified by the fact that a surplus in this special fund is sufficient to carry through to January of next year without further replenishment.

While the estimated saving of $25,000 may seem small in its effect on individual users of this service, it makes an appreciable total available for other purposes.

Compared, however, with the amount being wasted by Mansfield adults and children in various forms of illegal commercialized gambling, the saving is inconsequential, and similar earnest official attention to this subject could be made even more beneficial to the people of this city.

Application Card Not Complicated

CARELESSNESS rather than ignorance would seem to be responsible for the high percentage of errors reported in applications for the No. 3 ration books soon to be issued.

While the application form requires reading, and distinct writing, it is commendably simple and filling it out should present no difficulties to an intelligent child of 8 or 9 years.

Chief objection to the method of securing ration book No. 3, and it is relatively minor, is requirement for payment of three cents postage in mailing the application card to Columbus, as a franked card would have seemed quite proper for such use.

Fictitious Telephone Calls

NATURE plays some odd pranks in the distribution of brains—seeming, at least occasionally, to withhold them entirely from some such person as indulges in the type of so-called "practical joke" of making fictitious telephone calls which cause annoyance and expense to other people.

An instance of this sort occurred a few nights ago when fake phone calls caused five taxis to make trips to the same residential address, the round trips approximating four miles for each.

At a time when much emphasis is being given to the urgent need of conserving gasoline and rubber it seems unlikely that any sane, sober person would deliberately plan and carry through such a hoax.

It would be the obvious duty of any person knowing the perpetrator of an offense of this kind to reveal identity of the culprit so that steps could be taken to prevent repetition.

Cuffs Return to Trousers

BY PERMISSION of the government, men will again be permitted to have cuffs on their trousers—if they want them.

Ban on trouser cuffs was among the early moves toward economy of materials, and at all times seemed more designed to make people "war conscious" than to effect any real saving in goods.

Even now there seems to be some quibbling about whether "extra tall" men should be granted the privilege of cuff ornamentation on trousers—but that can probably be worked out by some of the better minds in Washington.

Knuckle Ball Baffles Batters

PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL is a young man's job. Even in their 20's many fail to stand the stiff competition. Every year sees more and more 30-year-olds dropping out. Big leaguers over 40 are and have been few and far between. Any device that would enable the older men to hold their own in their fight for survival would be greeted by them with cheers.

For the pitchers the knuckle ball seems to be doing just that. A tricky delivery that does not wear out the pitching arm like plain speed, it is completely baffling to the batters.

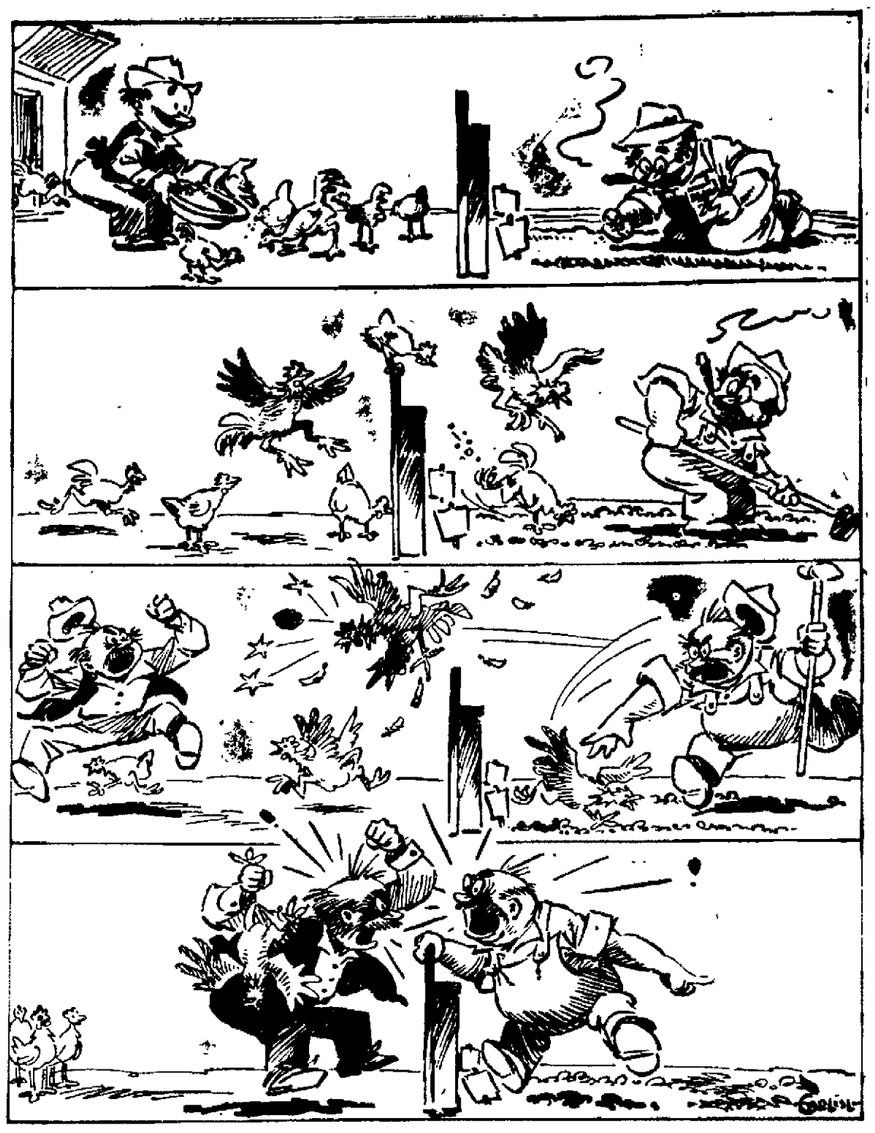
Old-timers like Niggeling and Wolff in the American League are getting by with a knuckle ball when their other offerings would be hit all over the lot. Fancy deliveries of other days, like the spit ball and the emery ball, have been outlawed because they involved the application of foreign matter to the surface of the ball. There is no way of outlawing the knuckle ball, which may become as famous as Carl Hubbell's "screw ball" and its noted predecessor, Christy Mathewson's "fadeaway."

The knuckle ball is fine for the older pitchers. The next problem is to think up something for the older batters.

It is a Peabody, Mass., youngster of six who replied, when asked about his ambition in life, "I'd like to be president—if there's a vacancy."

And just to think, it wasn't so long ago that women were clamoring for "equal rights"!

VICTORY GARDENS VERSUS VICTORY CHICKENS



Failure of Single Unit Can Bring Disaster to Entire War Machine

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

WE PERHAPS too often think of Uncle Sam's fighting-machine solely in terms of the men who are on actual combat service in the army, the navy and the air-force.

That probably is natural, for they are the ones who risk their lives on the firing line in defense of their country. Still they're only part of the machine. They are an absolutely vital part, or course, but behind them and integrated with them are many parts which also are essential to make the vast machine run.

The soldiers and sailors and airmen are the experts who wield the instruments of death against the enemy. But other elements of the machine have to equip and maintain the fighting men or the battle front will collapse.

A thousand and one industries fabricate the armaments; farmers produce food; various units transport these essentials to the theater of war by land and sea and air, and still another goes down into the dark caverns of the earth and produces—with arduous labor and great danger—the coal without which much war manufacturing must cease and transport must be disrupted.

Failure of any one of these units may mean stoppage of the whole machine. It may mean defeat!

At best it's likely to protract the war. That means unnecessary death and maiming in the fighting ranks, and additional suffering at home.

The fortunes of war sometimes are capricious, and a nation may encounter adversity which it is unable to ward off. Even an act of nature, like a flood, may play havoc with part of a war-machine. Rarely, however, does an all-important unit collapse as the result of a dispute among the people comprising it.

It would be a damnable tragedy if any quarrel should interfere with essential war production at this critical moment. That's irrespective of the merits of the argument on either side of a controversy.

There's nothing that counts excepting to keep the war-machine running and the flag flying. Even individual lives don't matter, much less material affairs.

A GENERAL and his staff can't quit because of difficulties with the troops. And the men in the ranks can't throw down their guns because they don't like the orders of the commander. The two of 'em have to make a go of it whether they want to or not.

In moments of national peril every man, woman and child is in the service of the country. Each one is in the same position as the fighting man, so far as duty is concerned.

Time is a vital element in warfare. Stoppage of a single unit for even a few days may react disastrously on the battle front.

General Harold H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, declared at West Point that the Allies will end the war "and end it soon" by bombing. By ending it quicker "we will cut down the casualties."

What a grand goal to work for! But we could fall far short of it if our production were seriously impeded.

This is a great moment in the war. The United Nations are rushing at Hitler for the kill. We need every single ounce of striking power which we can develop.

Delay in essential production might change the course of the war. It might easily protract the European upheaval, with consequent delay in undertaking major operations against Japan.

Apart from everything else, this means more casualties among our boys. Every minute counts. Thousands of men can die in the last thirty minutes before the cease fire is given. Even the final sixty seconds take their toll. They did in the last war and will in this.

Give Selves a Chance

SO YOU think your wife has changed, Bill? And you complain, Ella, that your husband "isn't the man he used to be"? And, naturally, you're both Plenty Sore!

There's your Mrs., for example, Bill. What a quiet little thing she was when you first married her . . . so devoted to her home . . . hadn't a thought outside you and your comfort. And now lookit her! A regular gadabout! Always joining clubs . . . always starting campaigns and crusades! Never an idle moment when she's around — nor a restful one. Might's well live in the Grand Central Station!

And there's that man of yours, Ella. Remember what a happy-go-lucky kid he used to be . . . always ready with a wisecrack or a new practical joke? Now he's a regular old plug! Studies every night on that correspondence course of his . . . almost impossible to drag him out of the house. Whatsa use of having a husband if he acts like that!

"Oh, why couldn't they have stayed as they were!" you both wail.

BUT THEY HAVE!

They are today exactly what they were on their wedding morn but you don't realize it!

You're not looking at a NEW self in this seemingly altered partner. You're simply looking at a DIFFERENT one of the Bunch of Selves which you took "for better or worse."

"A bunch of Selves"—? You never thought of them as that, did you? To the contrary, you thought of your husband and wife as ONE person . . . one, single consolidated individual with one definite array of ideas, attitudes, tastes, principles, habits. But there is no such creature on earth. No one is just ONE person. We are all many persons . . . different persons . . . with varied and contradictory desires and attributes, all functioning in one shell of flesh.

A Meek Mousie wife may also be a colorful Adventuress. She may be a dreamer and a demon housekeeper at the same time. She may have any number of different and inconsistent Selves, just as a man may be playboy, poet, plugger, preacher and philanderer within the same skin.

But the mate, friend, relative or business associate of this man or woman rarely dreams they possess multiple personalities. To the contrary, they see only one Self . . . that Self which most nearly answers their individual preference or prejudice.

So, unwittingly, we all marry under false pretenses . . . fooling ourselves as thoroughly as we fool our partners . . . Blaming each other, with equal bitterness. When the inevitable exposure takes place . . . And rushing frantically for divorce from these "heartless cheats."

What a tragedy! And what a stupid and needless blunder! For that very "changeableness" which we so resent might be the basis for the most delightful and alluring partnership! Love rarely dies naturally. Nine times out of ten it is bored to death by the ghastly monotony of marriage . . . by the dreary sameness of the Selves we exhibit to each other!

If we would only give our Selves a chance . . . our different Selves . . . our unpredictable Selves—

If only we would be all the different Selves we were meant to be—

WHAT A GLORIOUS DIVERSITY WE WOULD FIND IN MARRIAGE . . .

Report By Ambassador Phillips On India Is Critical of British

WASHINGTON—It will probably be denied, but the inside fact is that U. S. Ambassador Bill Phillips came back from India with a blunt, in spots bitter, report against the British.

He felt that the United States should do something about the festering Indian political situation, that the Indian army and people could not be a force in the war until the question was cleaned up. Also he was straight-from-the-shoulder in his criticism of Field Marshal Wavell whom he feels is not suited for the job and should be removed.

Phillips not only gave this report to the president but he also had a conference with Prime Minister Churchill last week.

Ambassador Phillips' report is most significant, because he has been pro-British, served as minister to Canada, has been a consistent believer that our policy must go hand-in-hand with the British. Phillips is mild, not addicted to crusading, but a thorough, consistent diplomat, reporting what he believes to be the facts.

Among other things, Phillips reported that mediation between different Indian factions and the British government was possible now; also desirable.

He feels that if some such move is not undertaken now, he should not go back to India, nor should any other U. S. ambassador, since the presence of an American envoy would be taken as the stamp of U. S. approval for British policy.

What the president said to Churchill on the Indian problem is his secret. But it is known that Roosevelt has hoped for a year that the British would do something about India. However, he also feels very strongly that the United States should not interfere in Britain's colonial problems.

Meanwhile, the British, with an army large enough to handle any problem inside India, seem content merely to sit on the lid—despite American pleas that the Burma road must be reopened and despite the fact that Indian troops will not fight the Japs wholeheartedly unless they have a small investment in the Four Freedoms for which they are supposed to fight.

White House-Black Market.

THE WHITE HOUSE is having its troubles with the Black Market. The White House architect called up the Georgetown Electric company recently to buy No. 12 copper wire for rewiring a part of the executive mansion. But there was no copper wire to be had.

"Where can we get it?" the architect asked.

"Baltimore, on the Black Market—only it will cost you 20 cents a foot instead of 7 cents."

"Well, we can't have anything to do with the Black Market," was the White House reply, and the architect went shopping elsewhere.

Note: Later the White House called up Weaver's hardware store to buy some gold paint. "What do you want it for," joked Tom Weaver, "to guild the throne?"

Watches Army Cooks.

MISS MARY I. BARBER, Washington's first dollar-a-year woman, has now begun to bring long-needed thrift to army mess kitchens. If Miss Barber has her way, the army's 250,000 cooks will be persuaded to make soup out of the left-overs and cut down the quota for the garbage pails.

In fact, her save-left-overs idea has already gone so far that certain pig farmers near army camps are complaining that they don't get enough garbage these days.

Miss Barber was borrowed by the Quartermaster Corps from the Kellogg company at Battle Creek to teach tough mess sergeants among other things, that a camp menu does not have to be arranged one week in advance, and stuck to religiously. If, for instance, a camp mess has several hundred chickens left over from Sunday dinner, they can be used on Monday, not thrown into the garbage pail.

Unfortunately, a lot of mess sergeants had been doing that, partly because the menu for Monday was already arranged. Also it is against the law for the army to sell food, nor can it be given away. It must be thrown away. This has been done in the past via garbage trucks to the highest bidding hog dealers.

Now, however, Miss Barber is helping to arrange master menus, which though they specify soup, do not name the variety. This gives the cook an option to make soup out of whatever his left-overs permit.

This all sounds simple to the average housewife, but believe it or not, it has not always been done by the army.

Another trick is to save all dripping fats from bacon or sausage, and use them in a cream sauce for cauliflower, or other vegetables.

Under Miss Barber's regime, if a soldier sees lamb on the Wednesday noon menu, he will probably see lamb broth (left-over meat plus barley) on the Thursday bill-of-fare.

However, army cooks must always follow the rule imposed by the surgeon general that no food may be used more than 36 hours after cooking.

Indian Merry-Go-Round.

IMPRISONED Mahatma Gandhi has asked the Viceroy for permission to communicate with the Mohammedan leader in an effort to effect Indian unity, but the Viceroy has refused. . . . Raj Gopal Chariar, another important Indian leader, has asked the viceroy for permission to see Gandhi in order to compose Indian differences. Again the viceroy has refused. . . . Suspicion is that the British don't want Indian differences composed. . . . The India league, which has considerable influence in the U. S. A., has secured the support of distinguished Americans in urging that the time for mediation in India is now. Among those who advocate this are: Pearl Buck, Clare Boothe Luce, Herbert Bayard Swope, Henry I. Harriman, Alf Landon, Dr. Mary E. Wooley. . . . The India league emphasizes the point that to help China, the Burma road is essential. And to open the Burma road the fighting spirit of the Indian army is necessary—fighting for the Four Freedoms. . . . To understand Churchill's obstinacy on India, take a look at his early background. A large part of it was spent fighting wars for the Empire—fought in the Spanish army against the freedom of Cuba, attached to 31st Punjab infantry, served with Tirah Expeditionary Force, with 21st Lancers in Nine expeditionary force participating in Battle of Khartoum, officer in South African Light Horse cavalry, participated in most of Boer war battles.

ERNIE PYLE

Roving Reporter

Tunisia Was Try-out for Men and Machines; Weaklings, Misfits and Freaks Weeded Out.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa—(By Wireless)—Men and machines have both now passed their shakedown period in this war—at least here in North Africa. Men who weren't up to their jobs have largely been culled out and given different work. There are still some inept ones in office jobs, but among the line troops the mill of experience has pretty well ground out the weaklings, the freaks and the misfits.

And it's the same with machinery and weapons. Some things have proved themselves almost useless. Others have turned out so perfectly that the engineers would have to scratch their heads to think of any change in design.

In the mechanical end of our African war three American vehicles stand out above all the others. They are the jeep, the GMC two-and-a-half-ton truck, and the Douglas DC-3 cargo plane.

THE DC-3, known in the army as C-47, is the workingest airplane in existence, I suppose. It lifts incredible loads, and takes terrific beatings from rough fields, hard handling and over-use. Almost any pilot will tell you it is the best airplane ever built.

The GMC truck does the same thing in its field. It hauls big loads, it is easy to drive and easy-riding, and the truck driver can do practically anything with it up to an outside loop. It seldom gets stuck, and if it does it can winch itself out. The punishment it will take is staggering.

And the jeep—good Lord, I don't think we could continue the war without the jeep. It does everything. It goes everywhere. It's as faithful as a dog, as strong as a mule, and as agile as a goat. It constantly carries twice what it was designed for, and still keeps on going. It doesn't even ride so badly after you get used to it.

I have driven jeeps thousands of miles, and if I were called upon to suggest changes for a new model I could think of only one or two little things.

One is the handbrake. It's perfectly useless—won't hold at all. They should either design one that works or else save metal by having none at all.

And in the field of acoustics, I wish they could somehow fix the jeep so that at certain speeds the singing of those heavy tires wouldn't sound exactly like an approaching airplane. That little sound effect has caused me to jump out of my skin more than once.

Except for those two trivial items the jeep is a divine instrument of wartime locomotion.

ONLY once in my long and distinguished jeep career have I ever had anything go wrong. That time the gears got all mixed up and the thing wouldn't come out of low gear. It was while we were still fighting around Mateur.

Our road was under heavy German shelfire, so the only thing we could do was take off cross-country and make a wide circle around the shell-infested area.

We drove through shoulder-high barley fields, along foot-wide goat trails, up over hills, down steep banks, across creeks, and over huge rockbeds. Then just as we hit the main road and were out in the free again, this gear thing happened.

We still had 20 miles ahead of us, and there was nothing to do but keep on going in low gear. Luckily we hadn't gone more than a mile when we saw a little sign denoting an Armored Force repair depot. We drove in just on a chance, and sure enough they said they could fix the jeep. They not only fixed it but gave us supper while we waited, and were extremely pleasant about the whole thing. That's better service than you get in the states.

The boss man of this outfit was Lieut. George P. Carter, of Louisa, Ky. He had intended becoming a doctor, and had just finished his premedical course, but now he's a doctor of heavy machinery. His gang retrieves tanks and repairs them, and keeps all the mighty rolling equipment of an armored division in order. To them, fixing a jeep is like a boilermaker fixing a watch, but they can do it.

The mechanic who fixed our gears was Sergt. Walter Harrold, of Wadena, Minn. Already that day his outfit had been forced to move twice. German artillery had got their range once, and they were dive-bombed another time.

Sergeant Harrold had been working and moving and dodging all day and would have to work some more that night, yet he worked on our jeep with as much interest as though it were his own. You can tell a mechanic at heart even on a battlefield. Or maybe I should say especially on a battlefield.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

WELL we asked the Russians a straight question and we got a straight answer.

We invited them to the delicatessen conference and we said "Now tell us what you need in the way of food?" they said "Everything and we need it right now and for a long time hereafter."

* * *

Any further questions?

The delicatessen conference was called to talk about post-war food but the Russian is unimaginative. Next year's broth isn't going to fill his stomach today.

Kruitikov, the chairman, was on good solid ground too.

Our side wanted to talk about next month or next year. He wanted to talk about right now, today. "Our lend-lease food requirements are not being completely fulfilled," he said.

* * *

If you believe him, and you've got to believe a Russian today or be a dirty old Axis partner, then our promises are still outrunning our performance. That's not new but its consistent.

Thought for the day: Thanks for coming, comrade.

sent better point buys for some weeks to come.

Whereas sliced ham is up one point on the new table, all other pork cuts, as well as pork variety meats, are down one point. Veal chops and steaks are up one point, and all other veal cuts are down one point. Lamb chops are up one point, and all other lamb cuts are down one point.

Semi-dry sausage, such as cercelat, pork roll and mortadella, are down one point.

OPA said that the values contained in the new table, which will be posted in all stores selling meat, will be effective from June 6 through July 3, and that no changes will be made during this period barring unforeseen emergencies. The main changes in the ready-to-eat meat groups are a four-point increase in dried beef and the addition of barbecued pork to the rationed list.

In addition to the changed point values, the table includes the newly rationed evaporated and condensed milk, with a one-point per pound point value. A new group of cheeses also has been included to cover creamed soft cheeses, which have been added to the list of rationed products.

Four categories of canned fish have been dropped from rationing, mainly to lessen the paper work of retailers, OPA said. These include crabmeat, sea-herrings, seamussels and a half-dozen miscellaneous types grouped under "all other." Oysters were raised one point per pound.

DOG FLUNKS HIS ARMY TRAINING

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(INS)—Fritz, a 5-year-old German Shepherd dog, today was given his discharge from the U. S. Army K-9 corps after flunking the training course at Gulfport, Miss.

Instead of baring his teeth and biting when confronted by mock saboteurs and spies during the war department training course, Fritz wagged his tail.

Counsel For Killer of Girl, 10, Battling Death Penalty.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Counsel for 57-year-old Anthony Treat of Cincinnati told the Ohio supreme court today he should be sent to the Lima state hospital for the criminal insane instead of the electric chair.

Treat is under sentence to die for the rape-slaying of 10-year-old Helen Sellers, which occurred in Cincinnati last Dec. 24.

Attorney Chester R. Shook, asking the court to review Treat's conviction, supported his plea of insanity with statements Treat had been convicted in other rape cases; he had two brothers and a nephew in an insane asylum; he was an alcoholic and imbecile; he had been divorced three times, and he had the mentality of a six-year-old.

Shook also contended the prosecution failed to prove intent of murder beyond a reasonable doubt and added lack of intent was shown by evidence that Treat was "hopelessly drunk."

192 RECEIVE ESSAY AWARDS AS FISH AND GAME MEMBERS MEET

Six Mansfield and Richland county school children, winners in the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association's annual essay contest, were awarded $35 in cash prizes last night at the association's meeting at North Lake park pavilion while all of the 186 contestants received subscriptions to the Ohio Conservation Bulletin, a monthly magazine.

The prizes and subscriptions, awarded by John C. Friday, chairman of the essay committee, cost the association approximately $110. Three prizes of $10, $5 and $2.50, were awarded in two classifications, one including fifth and sixth grade entries and the other, seventh and eighth grade contestants. Three of the six prizes went to Lexington pupils.

Winners of first prizes were Donna Clevenger, Lexington, in the seventh-eighth grade group, and Jane Lambert, Carpenter school, Mansfield, in the fifth-sixth grade classification.

Second place awards went to Lottie Hoverstick, Lexington, seventh and eighth grades, and Rosalee Rogers, Lexington, fifth and sixth grades. Third prize winners were Ruth Schaff, Johnny Appleseed junior high school, and Eileen Munster, Woodland school, in the fifth-sixth grade group.

Honorable mention was earned by Marcia Castor, and Geraldina Murray of Lexington and Arthur Karsmizki and Lewis Birmelin, both of Newman school. Schools represented in the contest were Newman, Carpenter, West Fifth, Hedges, Woodland, Bowman, Brinkerhoff, Prospect, Bushnell, Johnny Appleseed junior high, Lexington, Bellville, and Will school, Sharon township.

Floyd Dent, chairman of the judges, said winners were chosen on the basis of the understanding of the conservation problem shown by contestants in their papers, how well they covered the subject, and their recommendations for conserving wildlife. Eight of the winners of prizes and honorable mention read their papers last night, some of them emphasizing that conservation of natural resources can help win the war.

Speaking at the meeting, County Agent George B. Ganyard said it was just as important that children learn the importance of soil conservation as the protection of wildlife, adding that the entire conservation problem is education rather than one for legislative decree.

"The independence of the American people has tended to hold up the progres sof conservation, because farmers resent being told to save their resources," Ganyard said. "We must learn to use the right approach to the problem to get results and to acquaint people with the need for conservation before we tell them what to do."

Members of the association repeated their recommendation that the fall game bird season be extended to Dec. 20 to bring about better duck hunting in northern Ohio. The season now closes in Dec. 1, too early for the peak of the migration, hunters contend. The recommendation will go to the state conservation commission which will hold a hearing on the new game laws June 10 in Columbus.

How to Avoid Trouble With Child's Habits

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Here are some suggestions which might help the mother prevent some eating problems, in her child and correct some such problems after they have developed.

1. It it always well to consult your doctor.

2. The mother who is calm and can control her own emotions will have the best results in helping her child enjoy food. Children whose mothers have no nerves do not reveal eating problems.

3. Remember that the child does the eating and enjoys eating when he wants to eat. Children, like horses, eat when they are hungry.

4. When you begin presenting solid foods to the baby, present one food at a time and a very small amount of it. Remove the food the moment he turns his head or closes his month against it.

5. Show no concern over the child's eating. No one else in the family should.

6. Always let the child choose—between what you offer him and nothing.

7. As soon as your child can feed himself with his bare hands let him do so. There is nothing like self-feeding to cultivate an appetite. When the child feeds himself he takes no more than he wants. He never pushes food into himself when he doesn't want it. Don't worry about the mess; just protect him and the floor. Keep your attention on right values.

8. Expect your child over five or six to eat some of every food served the family, provided all the adults of the family do likewise. Let him serve himself as little of any food as he likes or tell you how much he wants. Any child or adult can learn to tolerate, even enjoy any food by eating a very small bit of it at a time and continuing to do so.

9. Unless your child has a proper appetite for all foods offered him, let him have no food between meals, especially sweets.

10. In case a tot has a scene over eating, present a small portion of a most essential food on a plate before him, with nothing else, not even water. Walk away. Return after about five minutes. If he has not begun to eat it then, remove the food, saying not a word, and end the meal there, making sure he can get no other food before the next regular meal time. Should he eat the food offered present a small portion of another essential food, and so on.

The child who will drink little or no milk should be handled in the same way.

11. Some mothers would do well to refuse any food at all to the child who has been a serious eating problem, for two or three meals.

12. In case you use any sort of starving method, be sure to stick by your plans and not weaken. Should the youngster, after holding out for two or more successive meals, develop nausea, consult your doctor.

The foregoing items and others I discuss far more at length in my special bulletin "Eating Problems," to be had without cost by enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Q. What about the child from five to twelve who eats too fast and hurries off to play?

A. Say nothing about his eating fast. Tell him before he begins the meal that he may not leave the table till the end of twenty minutes or till the last person at the table has finished. If he must sit doing nothing he will figure out that he might as well use most of the time eating.

Q. Should a mother prepare extra food dishes for her twelve or fifteen-year-old child who does not care to eat the family meal already prepared?

A. No; unless he is ill.

Q. Don't you think it unfair to condemn parents generally whose early-teen-age children have got beyond their control?

A. I do, especially when some of the very writers who condemn these parents now used to warn these parents when their teen-age children were tots against restraining them.

U. S. ARMY AND NAVY ACT AS SINGLE SERVICE IN ALASKA

(By International News Service)

ADAK, Alaska—Back on the Alaskan mainland army and navy officers, big ones, tell how the army and navy is one in Alaska and the Aleutians, a single service doing a single job.

But it isn't until you see the two services working together at an advanced base like this that you can realize just how much amalgamation has been effected by the necessities of war.

The first fact that hits the newcomer in the face is that "Navytown" hasn't half a dozen men who look like sailors. Army clothing was made to stand the rough going of life in difficult terrain, so the sailors wear army clothing.

That goes for enlisted men as well as officers. The army brown wool is used as regulation by almost all navy officers on the base, because on this ground installation men are forced to wade through deep mud, snow and tundra in their daily work.

Navy clothing was designed for use aboard ship, so most of the army issue is better for this base than navy issue. The distinguishing marks are navy caps, which many of the officers wear, navy blue zipper jackets, which are fine for this climate, and insignia.

Indoors the insignia is the only way to tell most sailors from soldiers, and that's a little tough. There is little difference in the insignia of the two services, so it is necessary to look close at the shirt collars. The army officers wear insignia of rank on one collar tab and of organization on the other. Navy officers wear insignia of rank on both tabs.

Similarity of uniform is merely the most obvious of the marks of co-ordination.

Army and navy men are doing the same kind of jobs to build up their bases, constructing the same kind of buildings in the same kind of mud.

OBJECTORS TO FARMS

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—(U.P.)—Federal Judge Ralph E. Jenney has announced that all persons coming before him for failure to be in the selective service because of religious objections will be sentenced to jail but given long periods of probation as farm and dairy workers. Edward Tootell, member of Jehovah's Witnesses, the first victim of this new ruling, drew a five-year probationary sentence to help relieve the shortage of farm labor.

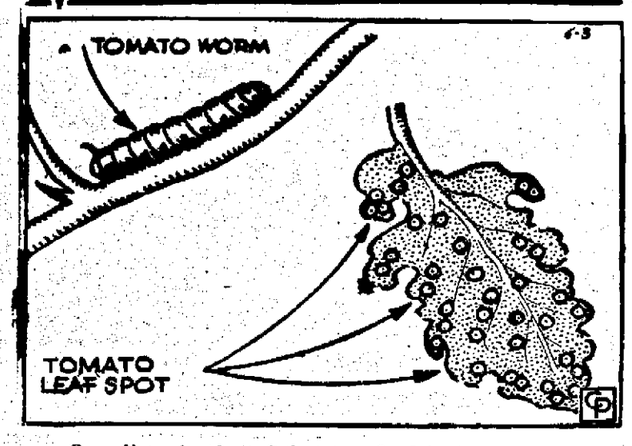
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Guarding Against Saboteurs In Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Ass'n

SABOTEURS will invade your Victory garden if you don't watch out. These saboteurs are the insect and disease enemies of many of the vegetable plants the successful growing of which helps to win the war.

Tomato plants, for example, to be healthy and vigorous growing, must be protected against their many enemies.

One saboteur to be on the lookout for is the Tomato Horn Worm. This is a large green worm, two to four inches long, with a horn on its back, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. One such worm can eat all the leaves off a tomato plant within a few days.

In small plantings of tomatoes these worms can be controlled by hand picking them from the plants, although they are a little difficult to detect since they are the same color as the stem of the tomato plant.

To combat these pests in large plantings of tomatoes, dust the plants in July with calcium arsenate dust or rotenone-bearing dust. Repeat once or twice at 10-day intervals. Spraying or dusting of tomatoes with arsenicals should be discontinued at least 10 days before the fruits ripen.

Leaf spot, illustrated in the Garden-Graph, is another plague of tomato plants. To keep leaf spot under control, spray with Bordeaux mixture at 10-day intervals from the time the young plants start making final growth until the first fruits are about half grown. Leaf spot is caused by a fungus and can be recognized by the brown, circular spots it produces on the leaves, as illustrated. This disease is easy to prevent, but difficult to cure. Plants suffering from leaf spot produce only few tomatoes and those will be found to be inferior in size and quality.

89 PER CENT OF SCHOOL PUPILS GIVEN EXAMS

They'll Start Classes Next September In 'Better-Than-Average' Health.

Mansfield's boys and girls who will start to school in September are in better-than-average physical condition, a report of the pre-school clinic conducted during May at the city building showed today.

Attendance at the clinic set a record with 418 children, or 89 per cent of all the boys and girls who were registered for examinations, reporting for check-ups, Dr. W. B. Wild, city county health commissioner, said.

The health commissioner and has assisting physicians found 222 teeth defects and 36 children with defective vision, which Dr. Wild said was " not very good," but the rest of the report was described as "better-than-average."

Only 155 of the 418 boys and girls had been vaccinated and about half, or 207, had been inoculated against diphtheria, the examinations showed. Vaccination for smallpox is required of children entering Mansfield schools.

Dr. Wild said 18 of the children examined have heart defects which he described as "a little high" and might be due partly to the wartime stress and excitement. He advised parents to provide recreation to relax their small children and to avoid letting them become too excited.

Twenty-five children were found to have hearing and ear defects and 87 had defective tonsils. Seventeen had had tonsil operations.

Other defects uncovered by the physicians included:

Bad posture, 52; gland disorders, 16; under-nourished, 48; skin defects, 2; nervous disorders, 4, and defective lungs, 1.

Because of the large attendance at the clinic, the health department was able to get a more complete picture of the physical condition of the pre-school children than at any time in recent years, Dr. Wild said.

Eight dentists and four physicians donated their services to assist at the clinic. Also assisting were mothers of the children, nurse's aides, and Girl Scouts.

Woman Worker Keeps Family Record Intact

ALBANY, N. Y.—(U.P.)—It used to be "like father, like son." Now, on the New York Central railroad, it's like father, like daughter.

Emma Stark Motzer, daughter of the fireman on the Central's record-breaking Engine 999, has chalked up a 100 per cent mark for two generations of railroading Starks by becoming a member of the New York Central's maintenance crew at the Union State yards.

"Father often remarked it was too bad I had been a girl and could not work on the railroad—but I finally got on the payroll," says Mrs. Motzer, one of 11 Albany area women hired for depot yard maintenance work, "and when the war came, I was very glad to do my bit on the New York Central."

Her father, James Stark, now retired, was fireman on the famous Engine 999, which won the world's speed record on its New York-Buffalo runs. Mrs. Motzer's son was a mechanic's helper at the Rensselaer roundhouse of the New York Central, before he left to serve in the army engineers.

Mrs. Motzer's husband, two brothers and an uncle also are in the railroad business.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

STOCKHOLM—There has been no fighting on the Russian-Finnish front for months. Out of that tacit armistice Finland could become the first nation to break away from the Axis and resume its former place in the hearts of United Nations peoples, but unfortunately needless obstacles stand in the way.

One obstacle is that Russia gives no indication of terms or even of an interest in ending war with Finland. Relatively small Russian forces are immobilized on the Finnish front, hence this inactive war is costing Russia practically nothing. At the same time, by leaving the Finnish question open, Moscow can use Finland as a pawn in trading for other settlements after the war. Some here think that is the main consideration of the Russians, and if so then nothing can be done.

Clapper

On the Finnish side, the chief obstacle is a deep fear of Russia. True, the Finns lived under the Russians for a hundred years, up to the end of the last war, though with considerable autonomy. But the Finns know that the present Russian regime would be completely intolerant of Finnish dissidents in any territory under Moscow rule, and that deportations would soon break up the Finnish people who were inside Russian boundaries. Therefore even Finns who are the most tolerant toward Russia, and the most anti-Nazi Finns, would rather take a chance on a German victory than on having Russia rule any of their people

That is the deepest reality in the Finnish trouble, I think, and although it may go to an irrational extreme it is a political fact which hitherto has frustrated such efforts as may have been made to find a way to bring about peace and reclaim Finland to the Allied fold.

That is not the whole story, for when the United States recently tried to find a basis for bringing both sides together the Finnish foreign minister, Henrik Ramsay, made an ill-advised flight to Berlin to consult with the Nazis about it. Obviously the Allies find it difficult to have any confidence in a government of that kind, and little can be hoped for until there are changes in the Finnish government.

Apparently we were on the point of breaking relations with Finland four weeks ago when the staff of the American legation was moved from Helsinki to Stockholdm. Perhaps it is just as well that the thread was not broken at that time. Events may make a final step necessary, but several circumstances suggest that it may be worth playing it the other way for the time being.

In the first place there has been some loosening up internally, and more freedom of discussion, so that the possible strength of Axis collaborationists in Finland may decline, particularly as Marshal Mannerheim has no love for the Nazis and as the war is clearly going against the Axis now.

In the second place, Finland has never signed the Axis pact. One can imagine that the Nazis brought heavy pressure in an effort to force such public adherence to their new order.

Third, one can also assume that the Nazis must have pressed the Finns to resume their offensive against Russia, because the inactivity of the Finns enabled the Russians to withdraw some of their forces from the north.

There has been some housecleaning in Finland, but more is needed, especially in the political force, which continues to be run by a little imitation Himmler.

* * *

Stalin apparently gained a large increase in good will by his recent move abolishing the comintern. If he now made possible an ending of the Finnish war it would be a great psychological blow to the Axis. The Finns in turn have an opportunity to do it now when it would mean something, instead of waiting until the Axis sinks in defeat.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—Of all the unions of the sea, that organization of the unlicensed sailors, mostly west coast men, bossed by a bucko Swede named Harry Lundeberg, seems to me to be the most honest and the least devious The sailors' union of the Pacific is anti-Communist and Lundeberg hates Joe Curran, the president of the widely publicized and glamorized National Maritime Union, the Communist party-line organization, and fights him and Harry Bridges all the time Curran has been trying to muscle his union into the west coast with Bridges' help and as a return favor has been trying to establish Bridges' longshoremen's union on the east coast

Pegler

Curran is cunning in the sly and slippery manner of the Communist or fellow-traveler and a bit of a moocher and glory-hunter. Lundeberg is a tough guy who wants none of your united seamen's service and welfare work for his sailormen He wants pay, more of it all the time, and let the men buy their own grog and flop where they want to and promote their own girls of their own social set if they want to cut a rug Lundeberg doesn't try to pretend that merchant sailors don't get drunk, jump ship and break discipline He is always giving them hell for it in his union paper which any enemy can read.

Curran pretends that such things cannot be and takes unto himself much of the credit for the supreme sacrifice of the sailors who have been lost in this war. Lundeberg calls Curran "Moosejaw" and "Ham-head" in editorials reminiscent of Huey P. Long's happier moments on the platform and the air and he is no less diligent to establish Joe Ryan's AFL longshoremen back on the west coast and to drive Bridges right into the sea than Bridges is to give Curran's Communists a beachhead here. It is a great brawl and Lundeberg has the appeal of Popeye the Sailor and a loyal personal following which Curran can never enjoy

Lundeberg wouldn't fool you about sailors In a page one box in his paper he warned his men that anyone who quit his ship without relief would be tried on charges by the union

Lundeberg doesn't talk patriotism or rant against the Axis as Curran does To him the union is everything Any man who shirks duty or breaks the union's contracts embarrasses the union. That he jeopardizes soldier lives and the Allied cause, seems secondary Again, Lundeberg, openly and for his enemies to read, denounced men aboard the Matensia for going to town leaving only one man on the security watch, "not once but a couple of times." His union is the only one that gets overtime pay for security watches in port. He regards this as a personal achievement and he has warned all his men that the next one who does it will be tried on union charges If convicted by the committee the offender might be set on the beach, and if fit, might be drafted as a $50 a month punk

An item from Los Angeles reports that some members of a crew who drew a travel allowance of $21 each from union headquarters in San Francisco to man a ship in San Pedro got drunk and stayed drunk for days.

"After the mates stood for this a few days," the paper says, "they fired the drunks and left us short of able seamen. We finally managed to get the ships manned and they sailed with a full crew"

"If you get gassed up and don't do your job, the union will unload you in the first U S. port," says another warning, "and you will not be allowed to sail in S U P. ships out of S U.P halls So it is up to you" Still another candid note admitted that in San Pedro "some of the fellows refused to stand their security watches, some disappeared for a couple of days and others got drunk and passed out on the job Most of them came back for another chance but it's no dice."

Nor does Lundeberg exploit as though it were an international feat of bravery by his union as such, the number of merchant sailors who have died in the war of Curran's personalized propaganda. In this respect he wrote: "It is ghoulish to use the killing of our members to gain cheap publicity for the organization or any individual"

ON BROADWAY-- By Dorothy Kilgallen

Top Sergeants Are Tough, They Say.

FOR MANY a year now cartoonists, movie scenarists, humorists and soldiers have made quite an elaborate point of letting the public know that a first sergeant—top kick, to you—was a cross between an ornery Missouri mule and the devil's chief minion in charge of sadism. They must be right in many cases, because the top kick's lot is not an easy one. He's the buffer between his men and the company commander. It's he who gets cussed out when the C. O. tells him to refuse so-and-so's request for a pass; it's the top kick who has to hand out extra duty when one of the men gets picked up less than sober in town and is brought in by the M.P.'s.

Kilgallen

Our concern with top kicks today stems from a story that was told in one of the Broadway places the other night by a man who had just been released from an army general hospital where he recovered from a bad shell beating in an African tank battle. Names—as in so many army stories—aren't important here, so we'll just use Joe and Jim and Al.

The story starts some 15 months ago in an army camp down south It was to such a camp that Joe, our draftee, reported for duty.

Joe was the perfect soldier type physically—over six feet tall, a good 200 pounds of muscle, plenty of football training—and the fundamentals of foot-soldiering were easy for him. It was the discipline that was hard to take. It wasn't long before Joe was a familiar sight in the company orderly room, where the top kick really handed it to him. Joe was certain from the very first that the top kick spent wakeful nights thinking up new ways to make his life miserable.

"If I ever get that guy in civilian life," he swore to his buddies, "I'll tear his arms off and stuff 'em down his throat, the %67'(*$'!".

Despite his troubles, Joe was a pretty good soldier when his outfit moved to a port of embarkation last summer.

He had two buddies in those days, Jimmy and Al. Jimmy was bright, and he liked having Joe around for laughs But it was Al that Joe liked the most—Al who was smart but small and frail and never meant for a tough infantry outfit, and who would have been transferred to an administration job if he hadn't pleaded so eloquently with the C. O. that he couldn't bear to become a fountain pen commando Al wanted action

The company saw action, all right—plenty of it, and in Africa.

The company was in the middle of a hot party at the front one night when Al was trapped by a crossfire of machine gun bullets and went down about 50 yards from Joe's foxhole

Joe shouted to Jimmy, "I'm going after him Cover me." He got five feet before the machine gunners turned on him and tore his shoulders off with a hail of lead. Jimmy started out of his hole when the top kick, who occupied the next slot in the earth, ordered him back to his post

"No use going after 'em, boy," the top kick said. "There'll just be another casualty."

So Jimmy stayed put. A few seconds later he saw the top kick dragging Joe back to safety.

Then the sergeant went out again and brought Al back through the hot rain of bullets.

They buried Al out there in the desert and the next day Joe and the top kick were shipped to a hospital After ten days, the sergeant was all right and he stopped at Joe's bed to say goodbye.

Joe, his left arm gone and his right buried in bandages, smiled.

"This is a helluva mess, sergeant," he said "After all the time I've known you I finally get around to wanting to shake your hand.

He dropped his gaze to the helpless arm at his side.

The first sergeant leaned close.

"I know how you feel, kid," he said "It's okay" And he kissed Joe right smack on the cheek.

He was wiping his eyes when he left.

Tough guys, these top kicks? Well, that's what everybody says.

LABOR RACKET BOSS SHOT IN BACK 5 TIMES

Wife Returns Home to Find Bullet-Riddled Body In Bedroom.

(By United Press)

PEVELY, Mo. — State police searched the Pevely area today for three men and the missing automobile of Joseph (Buck) Newell, notorious St. Louis labor racketeer whose bullet-riddled body was found last night in his country home near here.

Newell's body was found after his wife returned from a shopping trip to St Louis and found the doors and windows of the house locked. One window was broken Mrs. Newell summoned Sheriff Amos Lee, who climbed through the broken window and found Newell's body in the front bedroom.

He had been shot in the back five times with a .38 caliber revolver. The body was clad only in shorts, but was wrapped in blood-soaked bed clothing. Newell's own .45 caliber automatic was found on the dining room table, fully loaded Two bullet holes were found in the mattress of the bed.

Police were investigating the possibility that Newell was shot to death by one of the numerous enemies he made in a career of labor violence and racketeering around St Louis. As business agent for the local AFL Hoisting Engineers' union, he had engaged in bitter jurisdictional disputes with rival unions and his activities led to several violent strikes

Mrs Newell told authorities she left home early yesterday, leaving her husband with three men whom she could not identify.

"I always leave home when Mr. Newell entertains because there's always a great deal of drinking and rowdyism," she said. "He said he would be here when I got back from St. Louis, so I didn't take my key. When I got back I found the doors locked, the window broken and Mr. Newell's car gone. I got frightened and called the sheriff's office."

State police said Mrs Sewell was not being held.

Newell 38 was hulking powerfully-built and not averse to using his fists in labor disputes. He has been in and out of jail frequently on assault charges

Food packages are being received by American prisoners of war in Germany and Italy "fairly well" Stimson said, but packages to Japan are not being delivered because Japanese consent has not been obtained

INTEREST TO MEET BENEFITS

Atkinson Reports Ohio Trust Fund for Unemployment at $300,000,000.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Herschel C. Atkinson, retiring administrator of the state bureau of unemployment compensation, told Gov. John W. Bricker in a report made public today "It is probable that interest to be paid on our trust fund in 1943 (about $6,500,000) will exceed the amount required to meet all benefit payments during the year"

Hugh Jenkins, now chairman of the state board of tax appeals, will succeed Atkinson June 16 when the latter becomes industrial manager of the Akron, Canton and Youngstown railroad

In a final report, Atkinson said Ohio's reserve on deposit in the federal treasury totalled $300,049,220 as of May 15, as compared with $109,126,871 on March 2, 1939, when Atkinson took office on Bricker's appointment.

"Ohio's reserve," wrote Atkinson, "is sufficient to pay every insured worker in Ohio 50 per cent of maximum benefits. Or, stated another way, if one-half of the total employed working force were laid off simultaneously, the bureau has sufficient funds to pay maximum benefits to all those disemployed."

Ohio's 1942 unemployment compensation tax rate averaged 1.2 per cent of taxable payrolls, compared to 1.7 in Michigan 1.8 in Indiana and 2.7 in Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania

Up and Down THE STREET

Sportsmen members of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association heard themselves "panned" last night in wild life conservation essays written and read by grade school pupils in the city and county, but the hunters and fishermen accepted it good-naturedly Some of the essay contest winners, who received their prizes at the association's meeting, criticized sportsmen for their practices. In one of the essays—not a prize winner—a boy contestant told how his father, a coon hunter and his dad's friends "planted" young animals every year and then went after them when the season opened. "That's not conservation," the boy wrote.

The petition filed in Stephans behalf was signed by noted educators, bankers, journalists, churchmen and others.

It cited six reasons for asking clemency and declared:

"It would be a grave reflection on American justice if history should record that the first man put to death for treason in the United States was an insignificant restaurant keeper who extended personal hospitality for two days to an escaped German prisoner of war"

EXPECT FDR TO SIGN PAY-EARN TAX BILL SOON

Measure Will Make 44 Million Americans Current On Income Payments.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — American income taxpayers today awaited President Roosevelt's decision whether they should pick themselves up by the financial boot straps and become current on their bills with Uncle Sam.

Before the president is a compromise measure approved by overwhelming votes in both houses of congress which will put 44,000,000 persons on a pay-as-you-go basis if Mr Roosevelt signs it, as congressional leaders are reported to have received new assurances he will do. The measure was sent to the White House by a 62 to 19 senate vote yesterday. Both Ohio senators, Robert A. Taft and Harold H. Burton, voted for it

If it becomes law, the average taxpayer will pay 25 per cent of the lesser of his 1942 or 1943 taxes —in addition to his current levies.

This, and other major provisions will make collections current in this manner:

1. A full year's tax (the lesser of 1942 or 1943) will be abated for all persons who owe $50 or less, with a notch provision giving a $50 abatement to all up to $66.67. Only 75 per cent of the lesser of 1942 or 1943 taxes will be abated for others, who will be required to pay the remaining 25 per cent in two annual installments.

2. A 20 per cent withholding levy on wages and salaries, above basic exemptions, will go into effect July 1 for current collection of income and victory taxes.

3. Taxpayers with other sources of income will estimate their 1943 liability and pay quarterly on it, beginning Sept. 15.

4. The first two installments paid this year on 1942 taxes will be credited to 1943 taxes.

Senator Clark (D., Mo.) told the senate yesterday that knowledge that Mr Roosevelt would veto a full 100 per cent abatement bill forced the compromise, which Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) estimated would put 90 per cent of taxpayers on a current basis at once and make the other 10 per cent current within two years.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— More than 50 per cent of the applications for war ration book No. 3 received at the state mailing center here are "in error," Joseph L. Cannon, state mailing director, disclosed today.

The improper applications are being laid aside to be processed later.

Cannon listed failure to fill in all the blank spaces on the card, duplication and illegible handwritings as the most common mistakes "And we've received literally thousands," he added, "that have a three-cent stamp attached to a perfectly blank card"

Mansfield high school's football schedule for next fall gets tougher and tougher.

It got tough enough when Defiance, boasting a great record, was added to the list not so long ago.

Now Coach Paul Snyder announces that Toledo Waite has been booked here for Nov. 5. "I don't know much about Waite's prospects for next fall, but you can bet they'll be tough enough for us," declares Snyder who faces the possible loss of several 18-year-olds to the army this summer.

* * *

"We'll be small, and fast, and good for our size, but we can't afford to lose many of our little fellows," says the Mansfield mentor. "The ones who are left will be smaller yet."

Roland Schmidt, halfback, is one of the boys who'll be 18, and service material. Perhaps if Snyder puts one of his three other Schmidt boys in there, the opposition won't know the difference.

The Tyger schedule: Sept. 17—At Marion Harding; Sept. 24—At Elyria; Oct. 2—Open; Oct. 8—Defiance; Oct. 15—Springfield; Oct. 22—At Massillon; Oct. 29—At Portsmouth; Nov. 5—Toledo Waite; Nov. 12—Canton McKinley.

The Tygers now have only one open date left, in October, and Snyder is dickering with Cleveland Benedictine for a game here on that date.

I was all prepared today to write an item that Meredith Fisher, News-Journal city girls tennis champion, would be leaving at the close of school to join her mother, Muriel Fisher, another city tennis tourney player, in Elyria.

Mrs. Fisher moved to Elyria several months ago.

Then I thought "Maybe Meredith has already gone to Elyria."

So I asked her sister, Lois Weingartner, another tennis champ. "Meredith decided this week to stay here this summer," she told me. So the Meredith Fisher-Mary Gregorio tourney feud will be repeated for the third year.

This may be sad news for Mansfield fanettes, but interesting.

Bob TeStruth, Braves second baseman, is about to marry an Australian girl.

Shortstop Bob Ankrum, who has been corresponding with TeStruth reports: "TeStruth is engaged to an Australian girl named Lynda. Tee is nuts about the girl, and expects to be married very soon. He'll bring her back to the states after the war."

I was supposed to play a round of golf last week with Al Hager, but the weather ruled us off the course. Now I get a card saying he has been transferred to New River, N. C.

NAVY WINS EASTERN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—An undefeated season against active members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Tennis association gave navy's team possession of the historic Larned cup today.

Dartmouth, Harvard and Yale were inactive because of war-time curtailment of athletic programs. Princeton finished second, army third, Cornell fourth and Penn and Columbia deadlocked for fifth.

Indians Drop 8th In 10 Tilts

Shellacked 13 to 1 By Washington Senators.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians could feel the draught from the cellar door today.

The Tribesmen maintained a finger-tip hold on fifth place after absorbing a 13 to 1 shellacking from the Washington Nationals in a night game. The defeat was their eighth in 10 eastern engagements — evidence the Reds skins have attained mid-summer form.

The Philadelphia Athletics welcome the cascading Indians today in the opener of a five-game series. Chubby Dean is the tribal hurling choice against Don Black, the rookie right-hander who set the St. Louis Browns down with one hit last Sunday.

The Nats blasted four Indian flingers for 17 hits in the series finale, the biggest assault against Cleveland pitching so far this season.

Jack Salveson, Paul Calvert, Allie Reynolds and Mike Naymick alternated at the whipping post while Milo Candini allowed the tribe eight hits in notching his third straight win.

The Indians collected their line tally in the opening inning on a double by Oris Hockett and a single by Jeff Heath.

Every man in the Washington lineup, including the pitching Candini, drove in at least one run and all except Mickey Vernon delivered at least one hit.

VANDY HURLS

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Cincinnati Reds, the National league's greatest ball team on week-days, will endeavor to keep up their bounding pace tonight with such co-operation as they may be able to beat out of the Boston Braves.

Johnny Vander Meer, who took a whaling from the Brooklyn Dodgers Sunday, is the Cincinnati pitcher against either Jim Tobin or Nate Andrews.

Bucky Walters, the other Red ace, took a similar whaling from the New York Giants yesterday, but five Giant pitchers took a bigger one and the Reds took the ball game, 13 to 6. This raised the Reds to the eminence of third place and put them above the .500 mark.

The Giants had five runs off Bucky in the first two innings but Clyde Shoun calmed them for only one more the rest of the way. Meanwhile, the bloopers going for doubles and triples because of peculiarities of the atmosphere, all the Reds in the game got at least a hit apiece.

Frank McCormick and rookie catcher Al Lakeman led the parade, each getting four in five tries.

Bill Lohrman, who pitched only one inning, as charged with the game.

Ted Etzel clipped one stroke from par with a 35, while Carl Kushin was two over with a 38.

Outstanding pitchers of the past few seasons were noticeably missing in the league openers, only Stub Winebrenner, on the hill for Westinghouse, returning for another season of mound duty. Johnny Villella, veteran hurler of other years, chucked the winner for Great Lakes.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— "Speed-up" baseball sounds like a good idea to a lot of folks, but Prexy Will Harridge of the American league doesn't think it will work very well. . . . For one thing, the umps can't do much but hurry the players along between innings and if they try to cut short the pitchers' antics on the mound they're liable to hear a lot of pointed, ear-burning questions from the managers about whether they have a date that night. . . . As for Billy Evans' plan of making a flinger who is left on base go right to the mound without visiting the bench, Will thinks that when the weather gets really hot, Billy will find the boys need the breathing spell. . . . Besides, Harridge adds, "we played a night game in an hour and 29 minutes recently and the fans didn't get enough. . . . They had to flick the lights a few times to start them moving out."

Tribe Fails to Hit In Pinch

They've Got the Punch But They've Mislaid It.

By BUS HAM

WASHINGTON— (AP) —You might say that Vernon Kennedy, Cleveland righthander, is one of the old men cracking around in the big leagues, therefore he should be just the man to talk a lot on baseball during a war-time season.

* * *

And it's all right to say Kennedy has been around and knows what it is all about. This is his ninth season in the American league, and he has been with every club save Boston and New York since he came up from Oklahoma City of the Texas league in 1934.

In Kennedy's last start, Cleveland lost a one-run decision to the surprising Washington team, and that seemed like a logical place to start loosening him up.

"What's wrong with that Cleveland club anyway? All of the sports writers say the Indians are the ones to beat the Yankees out."

"We aren't hitting, that's all there is to it," Kennedy replied sadly. "We've got the punch but it hasn't been coming at the right time. Too many men left on the bases.

Our infield is the best in the league, but one bad play costs us a ball game every time.

* * *

"I haven't heard a single player get the bird about not being in the uniform of his country," Kennedy said of war time reaction in the bleachers. "The fans have been swell in that respect."

And the players?

"Well, most of them expected to be in service by the middle of the summer, I'd guess," he said. "But it looks now as if the big league will complete the season, attendance has been so good."

Die-Hard Dodgers Cling To National League Lead

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

The St. Louis Cardinals may be the world's champions, or, as Manager Billy Southworth calls them, the world's greatest ball club, but the Brooklyn Dodgers have to be rated as the most dogged, determined gang of die-hards in the major leagues.

This spring the Cardinals have sparkled and glittered and won the admiration of all their rivals in the National league.

The Dodgers haven't looked good, a collection of old geezers with aches and pains. No fewer than four of them were treated on the same afternoon this week by Dr. Robert Hyland.

Yet the Dodgers have held first place since the first day of the season and nothing the Cardinals have been able to do has been sufficient to dislodge them.

* * *

Last night they seemed ready to fall. The Cardinals had humiliated all the Dodgers' strongest, fastest pitchers and were within half a game of taking over the field. Leo Durocher had to take a chance on the only lefthander he has on his staff, Max Macon.

Macon still hasn't pitched a complete game, but he beat the Cardinals to even their four-game series and restored Brooklyn to a game and a half lead. The score was 3-2.

The Dodgers, with a revamped lineup, made nine hits off Lanier before he gave way to a pinchhitter in the eighth.

Meanwhile, the American league scramble for first place became even closer than the National as the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Yankees 2-1 and the Washington Senators quelched the Cleveland Indians 13-1 in a night game. This lumped the Yanks and Senators in a virtual tie for the lead.

* * *

Detroit held onto third place by beating the Philadelphia Athletics 7-2 behind five-hit hurling by Frank (Stubby) Overmire and the St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox divided another pair of extra inning games. The Browns took the first 7-2 in 12 innings and the Red Sox retaliated in the nightcap 3-2 in ten innings with Yank Terry pitching four-hit ball.

In the National league Cincinnati walloped the New York Giants 13-6. The Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind in a night game to beat the Boston Braves 3-2 with three runs in the ninth inning.

The Phillies nosed out the Chicago Cubs 6-5 for Schoolboy Rowe and now have beaten the Bruins seven times in eight games.

JOCKEY SET DOWN

CHICAGO— (U.P.) —Jockey Chalmers Basham, who has ridden six winners at the Lincoln Fields race track this spring, was under suspension today for the duration of the meeting because of "unsatisfactory riding." The track stewards offered no further explanation of Basham's suspension.

Johnny Cooney, Dodger outfielder, broke in with the Boston Braves as a pitcher in 1921.
